Moscow Reports German Advance On Stalingrad

Tanks and Planes Punch New Hole West of Volga City

Red Army Continues To Hold Southwest of German Goal

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Wednesday, Sept. 9. (AP)—German tanks and airplanes have punched another hole in Russian defenses west of Stalingrad, but the Red army continued to repulse Nazi onslaughts southwest of that imperiled Volga river city, the Soviets announced officially early today.

In the Caucasus outnumbered Soviet defenders continued to fight stubbornly against a Nazi wedge driven into Novorossisk, the Black Sea naval base, and for the second straight day the Russians reported local successes in grim fighting at Mozdak, sixty miles west of the Grozny oil fields.

The German break-through in one sector immediately west of Stalingrad was the second in as many days. The communique said it occurred in "a narrow sector" where Soviet artillery first held its ground firmly but was forced to withdraw to new positions after fresh Nazi tanks and infantry supported by airplanes were thrown into the fight.

Germans Lose 450 Men

The Germans also attempted all day yesterday to capture a populated place west of Stalingrad "with alternating success," the communique said. The Germans lost five tanks and about 450 men in this engagement.

Southwest of Stalingrad the Russians said the Germans tried to outflank Red army positions, but were beaten off with one German infantry company annihilated and nine Nazi tanks disabled.

No fighting was reported on the northwestern approaches to Stalingrad.

Soviet naval artillery men were in action in the defense of Novorossisk on the Black Sea coast where the Germans apparently had failed to widen a wedge driven into Russian positions. They repulsed a German attempt to encircle one Russian battery, the communique said, and in another sector one entire German infantry company was wiped out.

Annihilate German Group At Mozdok in the Caucasian foothills the Russians said 850 Germans were killed and ten Nazi tanks destroyed or disabled in a successful counter blow against enemy groups which had crossed a river (probably the Terek). Annihilation of the remnants of the German group was continuing, the communique said.

Soviet airmen were credited with destroying or damaging about thirty German tanks and armored cars, and more than 150 trucks with troops and supplies during Monday on various sectors of the front.

The German high command announced that further positions on heights had been captured by Axis troops in the fortifications area of Stalingrad, "notwithstanding obstinate resistance." On the Black Sea rim of the Caucasus front the Germans claimed that 6,758 Russian prisoners had been taken in capture of Novorossisk, but the high command admitted that bitter fighting still raged in the area of that Russian naval base—capture of which the Russians have not confirmed.

Report Russian Retreat

The first news of the German attack from the west of Stalingrad was disclosed in Monday's midnight communique, which reported a Russian retreat in that sector.

Dispatches to Red Star, the army newspaper, said a vast number of planes supported the assault, but (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

WAR BETWEEN JAPS AND RUSSIA EXPECTED SOON, CHUNGKING SAYS

CHUNGKING, Sept. 8 (AP)—War between Japan and Russia is expected momentarily following Moscow's reported rejection of recent "suggestions" from Tokyo, according to rumors circulating today in foreign diplomatic circles.

Just what proposals the Japanese had made these accounts did not say, but it was significant that they were reported laid before the Kremlin since Shigenori Togo, a known exponent of a neutral attitude toward Russia, resigned as Japanese foreign minister last week. (The Japanese suggestions may have been in the form of bald demands for cessation of long-coveted Siberian outposts to Japan.)

A Chinese army spokesman said today that China had received no new information about Japanese troop movement out of China, but reports received in other quarters told of a steady flow of Japanese troops into Manchukuo, on the Siberian border.

Tonight's Chinese high command communique — one of the shortest in months — said the Japanese in Kwangtung had retreated to Fankai, fifteen miles north of Canton and the fighting continued in the suburbs of Kihwa, capital of Chekiang province and at Lanchi, communications center some fifteen miles northwest of Kihwa.

Six Army Fliers Killed in Collision

ROSSELL, N. M., Sept. 8 (AP)—Six army fliers were killed today in the collision of two twin-engine training bombers during a practice bombing mission.

The dead: Lieut. David P. Griffiths, 24, Pittsburg, Calif.; Lieut. William P. Newby, 22, San Jose, Calif.; Lieut. Oscar W. Tredmore, 27, Franklin, Ohio; Cadet Allen W. Hottels, Lakewood, Ohio; Cadet Gerald F. McKenna, 20, Pittsburg; Pvt. Vernon T. McKelvey, 30, Fort Cobb, Ohio.

Former Prohibition Commissioner Dead

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Dr. James M. Doran, 57, who was in charge of the dry law enforcement as commissioner of prohibition from 1927 to 1933, died tonight at Georgetown hospital. He had been ill for some years.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Wednesday, Sept. 9 (AP)—Allied airplanes attacked a Japanese cruiser and destroyer off the Trobriand Islands between New Guinea and the Solomons Tuesday and probably damaged the destroyer, a communique said today.

Land fighting in the Kokoda area was static, it added. Japanese troops who landed several weeks ago at Milne Bay in southeastern New Guinea now have been practically destroyed, their casualties being estimated at 700, the communique said.

Torpedo bombers and fighters found the Japanese cruiser and destroyer between the Normanby and Trobriand Islands in an area north of Milne Bay. These possibly were the same units which yesterday's communique said had slipped into Milne Bay Sunday and Monday night in a hit-and-run shelling of Allied positions.

Some casualties were from the territory of Hawaii. The casualty list was the Navy's eleventh of the war. It was made up largely of men killed, wounded or missing as a result of direct action with the enemy but some of those whose names were listed were lost in accidents at sea and in the air on duty directly connected with war operations.

The Navy said that some of those listed as missing may have been rescued at sea and landed at isolated spots or otherwise may have made their way safely to places from which they have been unable to communicate with American authorities.

These figures raised the announced naval casualties for the war to date to 3,698 dead, 943 wounded, and 8,269 missing—a grand total of 12,910.

Included in the latest list were men from all states except Delaware, Nevada and South Dakota.

Finance Group Asks 5 Per Cent "Victory" Levy

Would Tax Individual Incomes of More than $624 a Year

Collection at Source on Wages above $12 a Week

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—A five per cent "Victory" levy on industrial incomes of more than $624 a year won thirteen to six approval today of the Senate Finance committee, which immediately directed the treasury to report on the possibility of combining this proposed new impost with the regular income tax.

The committee's action had the effect of adding $3,500,000,000 to the amount the treasury would receive from present and prospect taxes. The "Victory" levy would be in addition to the sharply increased income levies and other imposts already approved by the House.

Proposed by Chairman George (D-Ga.) the new program would call for the collection at the source, wherever that was possible, of five per cent of all income over $12 a week received by an individual from wages, salaries, interest, dividends, rents, royalties, annuities, business or professional net profits, partnership earnings, fiduciary yields and "other income includable in gross income."

Rebates Planned

Of the total amount collected, the treasury would retain $2,400,000,000 as direct tax receipts, allowing credits or post-war rebates to taxpayers amount to $1,100,000,000 annually.

All individuals would be subject alike to the tax, regardless of their marital status, but at the end of the year single persons could claim up to twenty-five per cent of the tax liability, or a maximum of $500, as a credit. Married persons would be entitled to a credit of forty per cent, or a maximum of $1,000, plus two per cent, or a maximum of $100, for each dependent. This credit could be taken in two ways:

1. In the form of non-interest bearing, non-negotiable bonds which the taxpayer could cash in installments after the war.

2. Suppose the taxpayer had during the year certain sums to pay premiums on life insurance outstanding as of Jan. 1, 1942, to retire debts contracted before Jan. 1, 1942, or to purchase war bonds. Then such expenditures, up to the amount of the post-war credit, would be allowed as an immediate credit against taxes. For all of the post-war credit not used to retire debts, pay insurance premiums, etc., taxpayer would be given the non-interest bearing bonds cashable after the war.

May Withhold Tax

Although the committee had not settled the details, wage earners who made more than $12 a week probably would have five per cent withheld from their pay checks beginning next January 1. Their full tax would be paid by the end of the year, and any credit which they had accumulated by reason of insurance premiums, debt retirement or bond purchases would be transferred as a cash credit against their regular income tax liability.

At the suggestion of Senator Taft (R-Ohio), the committee asked the treasury to submit to it tomorrow estimates on how the same amount of money could be raised and the same objectives attained by lowering regular income tax exemptions and increasing the rates established in the House bill.

Taft said it was his belief that both taxes might be combined in one, although this might entail cutting exemptions for married couples to $800 instead of the present $1,500 and the $1,200 total previously adopted by the House and tentatively approved by the Senate (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

MacArthur Announces Naval Action near New Guinea

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Wednesday, Sept. 9 (AP)—Allied airplanes attacked a Japanese cruiser and destroyer off the Trobriand Islands between New Guinea and the Solomons Tuesday and probably damaged the destroyer, a communique said today.

Land fighting in the Kokoda area was static, it added. Japanese troops who landed several weeks ago at Milne Bay in southeastern New Guinea now have been practically destroyed, their casualties being estimated at 700, the communique said.

Torpedo bombers and fighters found the Japanese cruiser and destroyer between the Normanby and Trobriand Islands in an area north of Milne Bay. These possibly were the same units which yesterday's communique said had slipped into Milne Bay Sunday and Monday night in a hit-and-run shelling of Allied positions.

Faith, turret gunner in one of the Flying Fortresses which raided Rotterdam, said he "just let fly" at the Nazi fighter and saw it spin and go down.

He was born and reared on a farm near Warfordsburg, Pa., in the vicinity of Hancock, Md. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Faith.

Faith trained at Langley Field and at the United States Aeronautical School in New Jersey. Until a month ago he was in a western state, his parents said. He has two younger sisters and a brother.

COMMERCIAL VEHICLES TO BE CONTROLLED BY GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Office of Defense Transportation announced tonight it would assume sweeping control over millions of the nation's commercial vehicles November 15, including rationing of gasoline, tires, tubes and accessories to such vehicles.

Described by ODT as "a drastic move to obtain further conservation of such equipment for war purposes," the order will supplement conservation regulations already in effect.

Approximately 5,000,000 trucks, 150,000 buses, upwards of 50,000 taxicabs and similar vehicles will be required to carry a certificate of war necessity in order to obtain fuel, tires, tubes, and accessories.

Will Govern Mileage

The certificate will govern the maximum mileage that may be operated or the minimum loads that may be carried or both.

The order applies to all types of trucks and all other vehicles built primarily for the purpose of transporting property, except motorcycles, and all vehicles used in the transportation of passengers or which are available for public rental including ambulances and hearses, but not including private passenger cars.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director said the certificates would be issued with the objective of assuring that:

1. Operations be confined to those necessary to the war effort or to the essential domestic economy.

2. Operations be so conducted as to attain maximum use of the equipment.

3. Operations conserve and use providently rubber and other critical materials.

Local Officers To Act

Local law enforcement officers will be expected to report to ODT any instance of a vehicle being operated without a valid certificate in violation of the order.

Applications for certificates must be made to ODT field offices. Approximately fifty of these offices now are in operation and the number will be increased possibly to 150.

Vichy's Protest On Bombardments Rejected by U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The United States has rejected a protest by the Vichy government against American air bombardment of towns in occupied France.

Making this known today, the State department said that the protest, made by Pierre Laval, Vichy chief of government, to the American charge d'affaires in Vichy, complained that in recent bombings of LeHavre and Rouen by United Nations forces, a number of people were killed and others wounded.

Laval added that inasmuch as it was reported that some American flyers had participated in the raids, he desired to enter a protest to the American government.

The charge d'affaires immediately replied, the department said, that the squadrons in question were bombing military plants in the employ of Germany; that Americans of course do not desire to see French people suffer any more than can be avoided; "since they have already suffered to an incalculable extent under German occupation."

Colonel Frank A. Armstrong, commander of the Fortress squadrons, who has led six of their raids personally, said the "Yellow Nose" fighters made futile "suicide attempts" Sunday and yesterday to halt the big bombers' string of successful raids.

"I had to pull out of line to keep one from ramming me when we bombed the aircraft factory at Meaulte," Armstrong said.

"They tried to stop us at all costs. Fighters sprang up from everywhere like mushrooms when we crossed the coast. . . . they sent about 150 up—100 at our fighter escort and fifty at us."

Republican Candidate And Incumbent Easily Win Primary Contests

More Than Half of State Gives Them Eight To One Lead over Opponents in All Counties; Both Issue Victory Statements; Two Congressional Fights Appear To Be Close; Returns Come in Slowly

By JAMES E. HAGUE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Governor O'Connor and Theodore R. McKeldin held steadily-mounting leads in last night's primaries and had apparently won nomination to head the Democratic and Republican tickets at the Nov. 3 general election.

With nearly half of the state's polling places heard from, both the Democratic incumbent and the Baltimore Republican attorney held eight to one margins over their competitors. Thomas E. Cook of Frederick, O'Connor's closest competitor, had only 8,040 votes from 551 polling places against the governor's 64,174.

McKeldin's vote was lighter but the proportion was about the same. With 444 Republican polling places in, he had 11,267 against 1,408 for W. Pinkney West, Jr., his only opponent.

TWO VICTORY STATEMENTS

Both O'Connor and McKeldin issued victory statements before 11 o'clock, so certain were they that the returns indicated landslide victories for them.

O'Connor, chairman of the council of state governors, predicted a "similar verdict" at the general election. The returns tabulated thus far, his statement said, "assure my renomination."

The Republican party, McKeldin contended in his statement, was "completely united" behind him. "I am appreciative of the support given me in the primary," he added, "and grateful for the honor of being the standard bearer of a one-party rule in Maryland."

John M. Kennedy was running third in the Democratic primaries with 4,246 votes in 551 precincts and Stephen D. Peddicord last with 2,186 votes.

Charles County Figures

The first county to report a complete Democratic figure was Charles which gave O'Connor 273 against 47 for Cook, eight for Kennedy and three for Peddicord.

Two of the Congressional fights were still close. In one, the incumbent, John A. Meyer, was trailing behind Joseph Wyatt. The Democratic Congressman, with 130 of the 150 polling places reported, had 5,567 against 6,015 for Wyatt. Meyer's foes accused him of voting against the selective service extension bill.

In this district, Ambrose J. Kennedy had 3,880 votes to run fourth behind a Republican, Daniel Ellison, who had 3,190 votes in the Democratic primary.

In the other edge district, H. Street Baldwin held a lead over his other Democratic opponents for the nomination to succeed Rep. William Cole, resigned. With 163 out of 409 reported, he had 7,411 against William McCloy's 6,201. Two other contestants were trailing.

D'Alessandro Wins

Rep. Thomas D'Alessandro won renomination easily in the third but incumbent David J. Ward was trailing state senator Dudley Roe in the first. There, 25 out of 199 polling places gave Roe 1,271 and Ward 1,012.

Rep. Lansdale G. Sasser was forging ahead in the Fifth district with 6,082 votes from the 68 polling places reporting out of the 179 total. Klemm had 442 and Waters 408.

Luxembourg Strikers To Be Shot by Nazis

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—Strikers in a factory in Nazi-occupied Luxembourg have been sentenced to death by a German tribunal and "are to be shot immediately," the British radio reported today in a broadcast quoting a German-controlled Luxembourg newspaper.

The size of the opposing forces was not disclosed, but a dispatch from the New Guinea correspondent of the Sydney Morning Herald said that late in August allied patrols reported "enemy parties of unusual strength, converging over the positions of the Allies" forced the Allies to withdraw.

A MacArthur spokesman said the Japanese had lost 1,000 men in dead and wounded in the jungle warfare in the six and one-half weeks since they made their landing at Gona mission and started the long perilous advance over the mountains.

Shooting Focke-Wulfs Just Like Shooting Squirrels, Gunner Says

By WES GALLAGHER

WITH THE UNITED STATES AIR FORCE FLYING FORTRESS COMMAND SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 8 (AP)—"Just like shooting squirrels back in Arkansas."

That's what tail gunner Sergeant Felix Trice, 21, of Stuttgart, Ark., said of shooting down one of the famed Goering squadron's "Yellow Nose" Focke-Wulf 190's yesterday during the Flying Fortress raid on Rotterdam.

Colonel Frank A. Armstrong, commander of the Fortress squadrons, who has led six of their raids personally, said the "Yellow Nose" fighters made futile "suicide attempts" Sunday and yesterday to halt the big bombers' string of successful raids.

"I had to pull out of line to keep one from ramming me when we bombed the aircraft factory at Meaulte," Armstrong said.

Navy Casualties in Dead, Wounded And Missing in War Reach 12,910

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The United States naval casualties reported to next of kin in the period August 13 to 30, inclusive, totaled 437, the Navy Department announced tonight.

The total, including personnel of the navy, marine corps and coast guard, was made up of 103 dead, seventeen wounded, and 317 missing.

These figures raised the announced naval casualties for the war to date to 3,698 dead, 943 wounded, and 8,269 missing—a grand total of 12,910.

Included in the latest list were men from all states except Delaware, Nevada and South Dakota.

44 Public Schools Open 1942-43 Term At 9 a. m. Today

485 Teachers Are Employed; Single Sessions Listed for First Week

Forty-four public schools in Allegany county will reopen for the 1942-43 term today at 9 a. m., with morning sessions only listed for today, Thursday and Friday, according to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent.

The hours 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon are in accordance with a practice inaugurated several years ago and are intended to free the principals and teachers from classroom duties to take care of the numerous administrative and organizational details always demanding attention at the opening of the session.

With this arrangement all adjustments should be made by the end of the week so that the entire school system may be running smoothly on Monday, September 14.

One School Closed
All the schools that functioned prior to the summer vacation, except Maryland avenue, will open their doors today. Maryland avenue was closed to give children better educational opportunities and better school facilities from a standpoint of general sanitary conditions. Parents in the neighborhood of the abandoned school will be privileged to send their children to another school of their own selection. The most logical schools for the children to attend are Johnson Heights and East Side.

The forty-four schools scheduled to open today include seven one-room buildings, four one-room buildings and thirty-three elementary and high schools. Average enrollment for the 1941-42 term was 15,635, divided as follows: grades one to six, 9,285; grades seven and eight, 2,130, and grades nine to twelve, inclusive, 4,220.

485 Teachers Employed
Charles L. Kopp, who is completing his fourteenth year as county superintendent, recalls that there were eighty-five schools in the county when he took over in 1928. The average enrollment then was 13,374.

There are 485 teachers in the county school system for the 1942-43 term, Kopp said.

Shooting

ing the only P-W 190 he has had a chance to shoot at in eight flights over occupied Europe.

"He came up to about 175 yards and I just let him have it," the young gunner said. "It wasn't even as exciting as the time I shot my first squirrel back in Arkansas."

Upper turret gunner Sergeant Christy Faith, 23, of Hagerstown, Md., who also shot down a P-W 190 said:

Hagerstown Gunner Gets One
"I let fly and he burst into flames and went down in a spin."

Waist gunner sergeant Melvin Barnmiller, 22, of Ann Arbor, Mich., could not share his flying mate's views. His hand froze when he had to change his oxygen mask and he could not operate his gun.

"I just sat there and watched them come in, thinking 'now we're going to get it,'" he said. "Finally I got so mad I just took the frozen hand and gave the gun a bang and it started working."

One reason given by the airmen for the Nazis' losses in the Monday raid, when a small Fortress formation shot down twelve German fighters, was that the enemy was desperate to knock down at least one plane.

"They came in so close you could knock them off with a baseball bat," declared First Lieutenant Clarence Thacher, 24, of Kissimmee, Fla., pilot of the "Kissy-Me-Cowboy" credited with five "probables."

Major Paul Tibbets, 23, of Miami, Fla., pilot veteran of five Fortress flights, agreed that the German fighters had been ordered to halt the raids at all costs.

Nazis Turn on Heat
"We are getting into their hair," he said. "They sure put the heat on and it's getting tougher each time over but if we see them first they cannot hurt us."

In the earlier Le Trait raid, two motors of Tibbets' plane were shot up and a cannon shell from an P-W 190 burst in the cockpit but he brought his plane home.

Armstrong said one of the Fortresses came back safely with more than 180 machine-gun and shell fragment holes in her and "the Germans must be beginning to wonder what's keeping our planes up in the air."

140 Frenchmen Killed

VICHY UNOCCUPIED FRANCE, Sept. 8. (AP)—The French information office said today that 140 Frenchmen were killed and 420 wounded Saturday in the raid by American Flying Fortresses upon Rouen, in the German-occupied zone, a sharp increase over the previously announced figures.

HOW NAZIS EXECUTE RUSSIANS

This photo was found by Russians in the pockets of Kurt Seidler, a German soldier killed on the Russo-German front and shows how the Nazis execute Soviet citizens. They line the victims up in front of a trench and kill them with machine gun fire. Note the trench and the bodies already in it. A cloud of dust spurts from the embankment as the five latest victims are shot down. This picture was flashed by radio from Moscow to New York.

B. and O. Has Largest Average Loading of Less than Carload

The Baltimore and Ohio had the largest average loading of less than carload freight in its territory during the month of July when the figure of an even ten tons per car was attained. The highest previous average loading of L.C.L. for a single month was in May when the figure was 9.53.

The special effort being made by the Baltimore and Ohio and the other railroads to increase average L.C.L. loading follows the requirement contained in Order No. 1 of the Office of Defense Transportation which specified that every effort should be made to consolidate L.C.L. traffic to reach a minimum average carload of six tons from May 1 to June 1, eight tons July 1 to September 1 and ten tons thereafter.

Almost all of the railroads of the country have these minimum requirements, largely through the co-operation of shippers, and the effect of the achievement has been to stretch the car supply to take care of current volume of ton miles, heaviest in railroad history.

American Tanks

ment was made against a background of extreme reserve maintained by the Allies throughout the recent actions by the Axis forces. The statement followed Wilkie's assertions at a Cairo press conference to the effect that the censorship in Egypt is too severe to allow the telling of the full story.

Nazi Tanks Not Invincible
Edward Kennedy, Associated Press war correspondent with the American tank crews in the Egyptian desert, reported today that the Axis tanks destroyed by the United States forces were of the German type considered virtually invincible when they broke through France two years ago and now greatly strengthened by facing armor.

Kennedy said any illusion about the invincibility of this type would be dissipated by a look at the number of Hitler's erstwhile pride and joy now reduced to burned-out and smashed junk heaps.

Now that the desert warfare has fallen into another comparative lull, emphasis was placed again on the incessant raids on the long overseas and desert supply lines feeding Rommel's forces. The United States Middle East headquarters announced that American heavy bombers operating with the RAF scored a direct hit on an Axis merchant ship and a near miss on a tanker yesterday.

Night fighters claimed to have shot down at least three enemy bombers over the Nile delta last night.

committee. The single person's exemptions might stay at $300 total voted by the House, compared with the present law's $750 he said.

Reject Morgenthau Plan
The committee adopted the principle of the George "Victory" tax plan after it had rejected on a 12 to 9 vote a $6,500,000,000 program laid before it Thursday by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Morgenthau proposed to combine taxes on the spendings of individuals and a broadening of the income tax base to raise $2,000,000,000 direct revenue and $4,500,000,000 additional that would be repaid to taxpayers after the war.

When it turned down this plan, the committee had before it a motion of Senator Guffey (D-Pa.) to adopt a five percent flat retail sales tax, without an exemption. Taft moved to exempt food, but his proposal lost on a 9 to 9 tie vote. Without voting directly on the sales tax question, the committee then adopted the "Victory" tax plan. Taft said he interpreted this action as eliminating further consideration of a sales tax.

Churchill Calls For New Efforts Against Germans

Paints Heartening Picture of Victory by New Allied Army

LONDON, Sept. 8. (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill gave Britain today a heartening picture of victory by a new army in the Egyptian desert and real prospects of military support for Russia's imperiled Caucasian flank.

In a tough and optimistic report to the House of Commons, he summoned the United Nations to new offensive action and called the Allied attack on Dieppe, "an indispensable preliminary to full-scale operations" in Western Europe.

He disclosed that as a result of the ten-day visit to Britain of the heads of the United States army and navy, General George C. Marshall and Admiral Ernest W. King, "complete agreement on war policy and war plans" had been reached by Britain and the United States as early as the end of July.

Covers All Fronts
This, Churchill said, covered every front in the world.

He said that the western Allies would come to Russia's support as quickly as they possibly could "without regard to sacrifices and losses."

Churchill surveyed the battle fronts thus:
Egypt:—After having lost 80,000 men before stopping German Marshal Rommel in the desert seventy-five miles short of Alexandria, the reorganized and heavily strengthened army of the Nile now has pressed the German African Corps back slowly and steadily with heavy losses to the Axis.

Aided by Americans
The main factors in this, the prime minister revealed, were the transport of 40,000 to 50,000 men around Africa in American ships placed at Churchill's disposal by President Roosevelt; also the heavy reinforcements of material, especially artillery, which enabled the Allies last week to deploy "hundreds of 25-pounders, many hundreds of 6-pounder antitank guns, on the striking forces of an Axis army which had been reinforced to twelve divisions."

"This army of the western desert," said Churchill, "now is stronger actually and relatively than it has ever been; in fact, so large have the reinforcements which have reached this army been that what to a large extent is a new army has been created while fighting actually was in progress."

B. and O. Handles 300,614 Freight Cars

Carloads handled on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad during the month of August 1942; totaled 300,614, including 182,357 loaded on line and 118,257 received from connections. This was an increase of 16,815 carloads over August 1941, when the total was 283,799 made up of 185,046 loaded on line and 98,753 received from connections. During the month of July, the total was 295,252 comprising 183,828 loaded on line and 111,424 received from connections. In August 1930, the total was 288,997 consisting of 189,049 loaded on line and 99,948 received from connections.

During the week ended September 5, 1942, the B&O handled 69,123 cars of freight consisting of 42,769 loaded on line and 26,354 received from connections. In the same week of 1941 (Labor Day Holiday intervened), the total was 58,818 made up of 38,225 loaded on line and 20,593 received from connections. The total for the previous week (the week ended August 29) was 70,824 including 43,262 loaded on line and 27,562 received from connections. Carloads handled during the same week of 1930 were 59,530 with 38,454 loaded on line and 21,076 received from connections.

City Departments Show Activities During August

Engineering and Street Units File Detailed Reports with Council

Monthly reports of the Engineering and Street departments were among the various subjects considered yesterday by the mayor and city council at the regular session.

According to Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, during the month, thirteen building permits were granted, eight of which were for new construction and five for additions and improvements. The total amount of expenditures for all classifications was $7,866.00.

Five sewer permits were granted, all of which have been installed from the main line to the curb.

Fees Are Collected

Fees collected during the month amounted to $127.88, as follows: Building permits, $21.88; general sewer permits, $75.00; sewer bond account, 1931 sewer permits, $39.00; miscellaneous permit, $1.00.

Surveys and other work done by the Engineering department during the month included: surveys and cross-sections of Cumberland airport; line and grade for sidewalks at 406 and 408 Warwick avenue; line and grade for gutter on Chestnut street; measuring proposed storm sewer in Mapleside; line and grade on Myrtle street; line and grade for sidewalks on Somerville avenue, line and grade for building permits issued; locations for sewer connections.

Edgar H. Reynolds, commissioner of streets and public property reported that during August, his department put in four sewer connections, located two sewers, changed one, extended one, opened forty-one and repaired thirty-nine. Thirty-five feet of sewer was put in on Rueli alley from Walnut street eastward and 282 feet of twenty-four inch storm sewer was installed in the Mapleside section.

One manhole was built in rear of American Legion home. Repairs were made to the following paved streets: Schley, Elm, Columbia, Hanover, Third, First, Pennsylvania, Merchants alley and Legion alley. Holes were patched on Greene, South Lee, Weber, Baltimore, Marlon, Park, Potomac, Thomas and Putnam streets, Maryland, Central, Baltimore and Columbia avenues and Willow Brook road, Waverly and Ridgeway terraces.

Stone Placed on Street

Stone was placed on St. Mary's avenue, A street and on several streets and alleys in the western and southern sections of the city.

Two brick gutters were built on Chestnut street and a concrete radius was put in at the intersection of Oak and West Third streets. The road grader was worked on the following streets:

Kent, Avondale, Hawthorne, Warwick, Dorn, Winfield, Byrd, Ford, Greenway, Homer, Quebec, Vancouver, Montreal, Glenmore, Ontario and Frank's Lane and in the alley between Montreal and Frank's lane. The Willow Brook run from Central to Pine avenue was cleaned, as were drain pipes and ditches in the southern section of the city. A total of 450 paved streets were cleaned during the month, fifty-six paved alleys, fifty-four catch basins and twelve manholes.

The debris from all waste cans in the central, western and southern sections of the city has been removed and sidewalks and bridges have been cleaned several times each week.

Playground Equipment Stored
The playground equipment at various local playgrounds has been dismantled and removed to the city warehouse, the report shows.

Commissioner of Police and Fire James Orr reported 384 arrests and 4402 cited in fines during the month.

Dr. Theodore R. Shrop, city health officer cited conditions were good in August. Only seventeen cases of communicable diseases were reported. There were 120 births and fifty-five deaths.

City Clerk Samuel E. Grimsinger reported $1,022.50 collected in license fees and $1,151.80 in Sunday movie tax.

Bonds of $101.45 Are Forfeited By Two Drivers

West Virginians Charged with Exceeding Seventy Miles an Hour

Two West Virginia drivers forfeited bonds of $101.45 yesterday in trial magistrates' court on charges of exceeding seventy miles an hour on Route 40 east of Cumberland Saturday night.

It was the stiffest penalty resulting from violation of the laws against speeding in recent years, court attaches said.

The drivers are Edgar Singleton, of Gassaway, W. Va., and Delbert M. Lytle, of Frametown, W. Va. They said they were on their way home for the holidays.

According to Trooper M. Frank Beamer the two drivers came zooming from the top of Martin's mountain about 10:15 p. m. at a "tremendous" rate of speed. The officer gave chase but the two speedsters "gave the gun" to their machines and almost escaped. At one time the officer's car registered ninety-five miles an hour and the two other machines were going just a bit faster.

After he had chased the two from the bottom of the mountain to Long Hill, at the outskirts of the city, Trooper Beamer succeeded in nabbing one driver. The other motorist made a futile attempt to escape detection by driving down the Willowbrook road. He too, was arrested later.

Trooper Beamer said the West Virginians were "slowed down" when they ran into some traffic on Long Hill.

To top off the case, Trooper Beamer said the two men each handed over a $100 bill, $1 bill, a quarter, two dimes in payment of their bonds to a court clerk.

Residents Oppose Sale of Murley Branch Church

Suit Filed against Pastor and Trustees to Prevent Removal

Court action was instituted here yesterday by residents of the Murley Branch section to prevent the sale and removal of the Murley Branch Methodist Episcopal church.

The bill of complaint was filed through Albert A. Doub, Jr., and Lewis M. Wilson, attorneys, by George R. Dolan and H. M. Gordon, trustees of the church and Marshall G. Wilson, a member of the congregation and resident owner of property adjacent to the church building.

Defendants named in the suit are the Rev. Elmer LeRoy Thompson, pastor of the Flintston Methodist Church, Robert Farlow, Dennis Bennett, Wilbur Perrin, Charles Babb, and the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The plaintiffs charge that the Rev. Thompson has posted notice of sale for his purchase, to be turned in not later than September 17 and that he intends to use the funds derived from the sale for the erection of a new church in Flintston.

Dolan and Gordon point out that the Rev. Thompson's action is in violation of provisions in the original church property deed dated 1850 and that the sale of the church can not legally be made without the consent of successor trustees, in which capacity they claim to be lawful administrators.

Complainant Wilson says that he and other property owners of the section are opposed to the sale of the church and asserts that its "maintenance as a house of worship and a meeting place for Sunday school would be beneficial to the surrounding community."

League Reports 334 Examinations For Nine Months

tubes will be issued only to operators presenting certificates.

The order provides that the tires of every vehicle affected by the order must be checked every 5,000 miles or at the end of each sixty-day period, whichever occurs first, to make sure that they are kept properly inflated and repaired.

Eastman said that the certificates would not be used in any arbitrary or ruthless way.

"Their purpose," he added, "is to bring home to operators of all commercial motor vehicles the necessity for treasuring these precious tires and vehicles and to give each operator a definite guide for his individual action. They will also provide a ready means for controlling willful and persistent offenders."

On the southwest, one Red army guard group was credited with killing more than 3,000 Germans and destroying nineteen tanks in the last few days, and a night raiding party destroyed a Rumanian battalion headquarters and blew up a cluster of ammunition trucks. Nevertheless, the official chronicle of the battle in this area said the Russians in general were strictly on the defensive.

Discussion Begins Today on Proposed Celanese Contract

Union Plans To Ask for Wage Increase of Fifteen Cents an Hour

Following a series of preliminary meetings between union and plant officials, negotiations on a new contract between the Celanese Corporation of America and Local No. 1874, Textile Workers' Union of America, will be started today at 2 p. m. at the plant.

A general membership meeting of the union organization will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Textile Hall, North Mechanic street, at which workers will be given information on the progress of the joint conference.

The present contract expires September 29, and in the proposed new agreement the union proposes a wage increase of fifteen cents an hour, a union shop, a check-off of union dues from pay checks and bonuses for former employees now in the armed forces.

According to George A. Meyers, president of the local committee, have completed a survey on increased living costs in Cumberland and vicinity and the data will be presented to the company during the discussion on the new contract.

Council Studies Plans for Opening Municipal Airport

Mexico Farms Field May Soon Be Abandoned by City, Officials Say

Plans are being considered by the mayor and city council to abandon the Mexico Farms airport, and put the new Cumberland Municipal airport near Wiley Ford in operation.

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer explained to the city council yesterday that he had conferred with Maj. Arthur C. Hyde, manager of the Congressional airport in Washington about the new field here. Maj. Hyde, who is under contract to train fliers for the army and navy expressed interest in establishing a training center here, Rizer explained, and expects to return to the city within a few days to confer with council.

Maj. Hyde proposed that an eight-plane hangar be erected at the field to house training ships. One section of the hangar could be used as a shop and another section as office space. This would leave space for six ships which the major plans to bring here. Rizer estimated the cost of such a building at between $4,000 and $6,000.

With the first runway about completed it would be possible to start the training school almost immediately.

The mayor and council decided yesterday against taking up the options on property near the airport, at a cost of $1,697.60. The options expire September 22 and 23. It was agreed that if the land is needed in the future it can be obtained by condemnation proceedings.

Local members of the Civil Air Patrol have already asked for permission to move planes and equipment to the new air field.

The mayor and council decided yesterday against taking up the options on property near the airport, at a cost of $1,697.60. The options expire September 22 and 23. It was agreed that if the land is needed in the future it can be obtained by condemnation proceedings.

Good Words That Only Add to Impatience

REACTION of the people hereabout to the rain of words which President Roosevelt showered upon the Congress and the people in his Labor day message, as near as this newspaper has been able to interpret it, is that of an impatience bordering upon exasperation.

They agree with the president in his reiteration that "it is impossible for the cost of living to be stabilized while farm prices continue to rise"; that "you cannot expect the laborer to maintain a fixed wage level if everything he wears and eats begin to go up drastically in price"; and that, "on the other hand, it is impossible to keep any prices stable—farm prices or any other prices—if wage rates, one of the most important elements in the cost of production, continue to increase."

The president has asserted these things repeatedly. He set them forth in his message to Congress last April 27, in his address to the people April 28, in his message to the shipbuilding wage stabilization conference in Chicago May 2 and on sundry other occasions. Yet here it is in September and nothing has been done, except that the chief executive uttered a stream of words out of which emerges the passing of the buck to the Congress in a rather timorous mood with respect to wages and in belligerent vein for the farm bloc. In effect he says that if only the farm bloc will yield everything will be hunky-dory, even the wage spiral, which most people have coupled with the farm price problem as equally responsible for the menace of inflation now confronting the nation.

That demonstration of continued weakness at a time when the president should get tough with an unmistakable leadership of which there has been a long felt need, indeed, long beyond the time when he should have got busy on these vital problems, is what has disappointed the people hereabout, and this newspaper takes it as typical of American sentiment generally aside from the inconsequential response of the confirmed selfish yessers.

If there is one thing to be admired in the president's messages it is the meticulous regard he manifests for the rights and duties of the Congress. He is on firm ground when he proposes to take the legislative branch into consultation and not to do by executive action what he believes the Congress should do—in sensing a twilight zone of uncertainty respecting the validity of executive action though clothed with almost unlimited war powers. It is a bit puzzling, however, to have him insist in the same breath that there are other constitutional procedures that would allow him to act alone. Those who wonder at his tardiness in meeting the bifurcated problem of inflation can, in looking upon those words and the negligence of a politically-minded Congress, logically ask why he has not utilized those powers.

At any rate, it is hoped that Congress will act, and that it will act firmly and unequivocally, inasmuch as the president continues in his reluctance to do so himself. Also, the president must take his own words to heart and, in the apt words of one commentator, instill into his own field of government the same sense of urgency that he rightfully demands of others. There has been entirely too much political barnstorming not only within Congress but also within the administrative branch of government.

The School Bell Rings

THE SOUND of the school bell is heard again throughout the land, heralding the beginning of a new school year and chronicling the end of summer vacation time. The young generation is again wrestling with the task of acquiring an education.

To those of school age vacation time always seems too short, and this summer was no exception, but there are compensations in resumption of studies. It is good to see chums who have been seen infrequently or not at all during vacation. Divulging the experiences of the summer generates an endless amount of conversation. There are some new boys and girls in school, too, and the promise of new friendships.

The war, too, inspires much school-age thought and comment. The young generation is definitely Commando-minded, and if Hitler and Hirohito could hear only some of the ideas designed to effect their downfall put forward by Young America, they would know that they have started something that they can never hope to finish.

Operation of schools in wartimes presents many problems for school officials as well as for the teachers. There is a serious shortage of teachers in some localities and schools have been forced to resume with a curtailed teaching staff. Many married women teachers who had not expected to return to school rooms are back at their desks.

But the school bell rings again, as it has for countless years, and if the war presents unusual problems, teacher knows that she can always count on her pupils. American youth is war-minded and is ready to co-operate in a do-or-die spirit in any emergency.

John Barleycorn Goes to War

AND NOW Uncle Sam has served notice on John Barleycorn that his number has been called in the draft.

Word has come from the War Production Board that manufacture of whisky, gin and other beverage spirits will cease by November 1 because by that date all the nation's distilleries will have been converted for production of alcohol for war purposes.

Uncle Sam found that John Barleycorn would be a mighty useful man in the war effort. A glance at the occupational questionnaire John filled out shows that he is a pretty fair hand as a rubber and smokeless powder manufacturer, a fact which many have overlooked because of Mr. Barleycorn's flashier talents as a producer of boxing gloves.

It is estimated that 476,000,000 gallons of alcohol will be required in the nation's war effort next year. Half of this amount is needed for synthetic rubber production, the remainder for manufacture of smokeless powder and various essential military and civilian uses.

But the conversion of the distilleries should not be the signal for a run on redye banks. It is reliably reported that the warehouses can still come through with rye, bourbon and allied fortifications for the nation's thirst for five years, before the present supply of 550,000,000 gallons of distilled spirits has been "hatched."

It would seem too much like deliberately inviting an extra one to speculate now on possibilities of replacements when all these headaches are gone.

Forgetful Motorists

SOME SEER learned in psychology ought to be asked to explain why so many citizens of this land seem to forget, once they are back of the wheel, that they have a stake in this war and that tire and gasoline conservation are important elements having to do with victory.

According to the Public Roads Administration at Washington, more than half the motorists "in several states still drive more than forty miles an hour despite the appeal by President Roosevelt that this maximum speed be adopted to conserve tires and gasoline." The data was turned over to the War department's highway traffic advisory committee, which is conducting a drive to save both products.

That some improvement has been made in certain areas is indicated by the fact that the average speeds of traffic in eight states were shown to be two to eight miles an hour slower than before Pearl Harbor. Perhaps too many motorists have a tendency to forget the Japanese attack once they begin touring the countryside. Perhaps they should carry miniature phonographs which bark "Remember Pearl Harbor" as soon as the speedometer hits more than forty miles an hour.

The Japs have a nickname for their Premier Tojo. They call him "Razor Brains." And before this war is over the United Nations are going to give him a good stropping.

Due to the threatened shortage of fuel along the eastern coast, citizens may be all set for a fireside chat some evening next winter and discover that they have no firesides.

Another theory that has been exploded, to the consternation of the planners, is that the price of hogs has no effect upon the price of pork chops.

A Tiresome Word

By MARSHALL MASLIN

It's none of my business maybe, but I'm getting terribly tired of one word.

I find it everywhere. It pops up in books. Literary critics, supposed to have a hundred thousand words at their command, use it frequently. People who insist on variety in everything else drop it into their conversation all day long and far into the night.

And that word is "swell." "Swell" is all right, I suppose, but it can't mean all things that people use it to mean. And when you try to make a word mean so many things in the English language, it grows weary after a while and becomes a bore.

Children tire of "rolled oats" for breakfast every morning. Once there was a man who killed himself because he tired of lacing his shoes. Men in prison tire of beans. . . . I'm tired of "swell." And who wouldn't be?

If a painting is good, it is swell. If a book is well written and accurate, it's swell. If a play or a motion picture is clever and well-acted, it's swell. An automobile ride, a picnic, a meal, a view from a hill, a swim in a lake, an advertisement, a violin concert—all these are swell. Even a human being is swell. . . . Once, a "swell" was rising of waters in the ocean; once a "swell" was a perfect gentleman with handlebar moustaches, a diamond ring, a double-breasted coat and a cane; but now "swell" is anything you please.

Now everything is "swell"—and that positively can't be true. Everything in life is different; every moment is rich in something new; every book, every dream, every flower, every grain of sand has an individuality duplicated nowhere else in the universe, and one word cannot describe them all.

I'm a fussy fellow with a sour face, and if I don't watch out, my face will freeze that way—and how'll I like that? But just the same, I'm sick and tired of a word and that word is "swell." I live in hopes that soon, very soon, the "swelling" will go down and we'll hear that word no more.

And when that happens it certainly WILL be "swell."

Paul Mallon Says Roosevelt Changed Plans Suddenly

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Mr. Roosevelt did not submit his wage-price program to Congress Labor day as planned. All he said to Congress was (in effect):

"You repeal that obnoxious farm-price inflating law within three weeks, and allow me freely to move against our rising threat of inflation disaster, or I will put my program into effect, regardless of your restriction."

Something happened the last few days before the message to cause a change in White House plans.

The president's trouble-compromiser, Judge Rosenman, had submitted to Mr. Roosevelt several recommendations for executive action without congressional approval (see column published August 26.) These headed up toward inauguration of an overall economic control board, made up of various government department chiefs, (McNutt, Henderson, Davis, Eccles, Nelson, Wickard.)

Tired of Super Boards

Mr. Roosevelt, tired of creating super-boards on top of failures, and mindful of some inner criticism, then seemed to avert toward naming a chairman of the board with such strong powers that he could be popularly known as a czar over prices and wages.

For that job he possibly had decided upon a man, not too much of a laborite, or farm bloc man, to be suspected of favoritism in administering wages and prices.

Presumably he wanted someone who would establish the confidence of the country (Baruch and Lehman being mentioned in most of the newspaper accounts, although some threw in the names of Justice Douglas, and other left-leaning New Dealers who did not fill the requirement, or McNutt who is already running for president in 1944.)

When Mr. Roosevelt tried this program out on congressmen in advance, he ran into objections, mainly from the farm bloc. Some of them, like Senator Norris, of Nebraska, spoke out publicly.

Warned by Norris

A day or two before the president was scheduled to speak, Norris openly warned him Congress would "raise hell" if he thus trampled on its constitutional prerogatives.

So the president decided to give them three weeks to do it the regular way, their way—if they could.

His threat to do it anyway October 1, implied his own doubt that the farm bloc would relent and let him do it.

No one now doubts the wisdom of freezing wages and prices. It should have been done nine months ago, when the war started, as Bernard Baruch (still the fairest and smartest economist in contact with Mr. Roosevelt) then told the White House.

Long Delayed

It should have been done last spring when the present Henderson price setup was instituted by Congress over two-thirds of the prices of the nation, leaving one-third untouched and encouraging farm prices to run up. The Henderson system has been a brazen political makeshift compromise with the unions and farm bloc.

The part of it that Mr. Roosevelt did not tell in his message, and the story with which the farm bloc men have justified themselves for their own selfish politics, is that Mr. Roosevelt was not holding down the unions.

His various labor boards let some union wages ease up higher along a cost of living yardstick—and in the pending General Motors case a labor board panel even went beyond the cost of living justification for a further wage increase. The farm bloc men said:

"You are letting the unions

SECRETARY OF STATE

Thomas Elmo Jones, 35, is the fourth secretary of state to serve under Governor Herbert R. O'Connor. Jones, Democratic member of the House of Delegates and Prince George's county contractor, was appointed to succeed Miles T. Tull, one of the youngest men ever to hold the office, who drowned last year on a fishing trip. As chief election official of the state, Jones faces a busy three months with the September primaries and the November election.

get theirs; we will get ours."

Weakness Remains

This weakness in the president's position still prevails in his message. While his presentation of the case against rising wages and prices is straightforward, and non-political, and his plan to act carries the same honest, open handed general tone, he did not say how, or how firmly, he will "stabilize" union wages. (Significantly, perhaps, he does not use the words "fix" or "freeze" in this connection, but only in connection with prices.)

All he said about wages was that he proposes to "stabilize" them himself.

His program, therefore, cannot be analyzed yet. While his objective is unambiguously right, the most important question of whether his program will work, or even whether it will be fair and firm can be answered only after it is announced.

People Critical

People will look very closely, for the wording of the labor provisions especially, to see whether he will leave enough loopholes through which unions can edge their particular stipends still higher.

Also the character of the man he will appoint to do the job may be more revealing as to the real extent of his program, which is now being prematurely christened by the headline writers as a "wage-price freezing" device.

So far it sounds more like wage "stabilization" and price "freezing."

Wounded Have Better Chance

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

The army medical corps has some very interesting facts in regard to treatment of wounds in the current war. As a sideline to the grimness of the conflict, it is encouraging to learn that the newest developments in medical science are following the troops onto the battlefield.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Maj. Gen. James C. Magee surgeon general, points out that massive infection of wounds, so common in the last war, are now conspicuous by their absence. Treatment of men wounded at Pearl Harbor using sulfanilamide drugs, blood plasma and other methods, brought phenomenal results. Less than four per cent of the cases of extensive wounds, including compound fractures, became infected even to a mild degree, he reported.

We have already heard of men who have made quick recoveries from wounds which would have been fatal twenty-five years ago. Gen. Magee states fairly that the newest methods of treatment have restored to duty many men who, under former methods of treatment, would still be facing the prospects of long and continues hospitalization. War, at its best, is a ghastly business, but it is extremely comforting to know that the laconic phrase "wounded in action" no longer need carry fearful implications in a great majority of cases.

Senator Maloney Pleads for Better Policy on Draft

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Senator Francis Maloney, of Connecticut, Democrat, is one of the members of Congress who is alert to the widespread uncertainty which prevails with reference to Selective Service policy and the administration's lack of consistency in handling the problem here in Washington.

Mr. Maloney has written a letter to Gen. Hershey, director of the Selective Service system, which calls attention to the "chaos, confusion and uncertainty" confronting the family men of the country.

"Inquiries from an increasing number of my constituents," he writes, "regarding the announced possibility of an early call under the Selective Service law for married men with dependents prompts me to ask you to give consideration to an immediate clarification of the question. I hope your will understand that my requests are subject to the paramount considerations of the army. On the other hand, so much has recently been said and published by representatives of the Selective service, not a little of which has tended to create confusion, that it appears to me that the formulation of a definite authoritative policy to be carried out by the local boards, for the sake of the morale of the affected citizens, is highly desirable.

Responsibility Sensed

"Let me assure you that the inquiries I have received from the state of Connecticut reflect a gratifying sense of responsibility and a widespread desire to serve in the best possible manner to bring about a complete and prompt victory. The difficulty, however, which many seem to have, is to know when and how their services might best be offered.

"The difficulty is intensified in the case of married men with dependents. By and large these men have heavy conflicting responsibilities. They are confronted with unavoidable family problems. They have position in civilian life which cannot be readily relinquished. For the most part they represent the higher age brackets within the draft limits, and the financial worries necessarily encountered in leaving families and established positions are besetting them to the extent, in many cases, of threatening complete demoralization.

"Yet, despite these conflicting worries and responsibilities, there remains among practically all these citizens a deep-seated sense of patriotism and a genuine desire to serve the nation, if necessary, in the military forces of the country where and when properly required.

Confusing Announcements

"The problem of these men is further complicated by such announcements as that made this week by the acting director of Selective Service in Connecticut, to the effect that as of August 20, 1942, no deferments will be granted while the applications for commissions may be pending. Under such a regulation, a married man who may consider himself qualified for a commission but who nevertheless may be operating under the primary responsibility to his family, must take the risk of induction into the armed forces without a commission or immediately make application for such a commission, with consequent disruption of his family and civilian status."

Mr. Maloney went on to suggest that married men be called to service under the draft according to age and the number of family dependents so that a married man 25 years old would be called before a married man 40 years old. He urges that announcement be made by local boards of anticipated calls of married men well in advance to permit necessary readjustment of family and business affairs.

"You will recognize, I am sure," he continues, "that these suggestions are based upon the obvious facts that a man 25 years old is better adapted to military service than a man 40 years old; that a man with one child is normally beset with fewer worries than a man with three, and so, on the average, will make a better soldier.

Are Equally Patriotic

"It is my firm conviction that the chaos, confusion and uncertainty confronting the family men of the country who are not less patriotic and no less ready to serve than their unmarried fellow citizens, may so demoralize our civilian population as to constitute a great threat to efficient war effort. For this reason, and for the additional abiding belief that the preservation of the family life as far as possible is essential to the future strength of the nation, I earnestly beseech your careful attention to these questions."

Other senators are receiving a flood of letters on the operation of the Selective Service system. Lack of a uniform quota system is the main cause of complaint.

TODAY'S VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

WINTER CHECK-UP

In commercial orchards the San Jose scale is kept under control but frequently the amateur gardener loses an apple tree because these scale insects have been neglected year after year. There are several generations a year. Infested trees have thin foliage, lack vigor and the fruit is spotty.

As illustrated on the Garden-Graph, trees lightly affected show small grayish specks on the surface of the bark. When the infestation becomes heavy, the entire tree surface is covered with a gray layer of overlapping scales.

The best method of control is to use a dormant spray, either lime-sulphur, miscible oil or an oil emulsion.

Get the iron out of your basement now!

Half of every tank, gun and ship is made from scrap iron and steel

Put your Scrap out—to be picked up Sunday, September 13
Watch for further Junk Round-Up Announcements.

Unless the citizens of America respond at once, the war production program can bog down for lack of steel and other vital materials.

Even in peacetime, scrap provided about 50% of the raw material for steel.

It may be rusty, old "scrap" to you, but it is actually refined steel—with most impurities removed. In the steel mills this precious "scrap" is remelted with pig iron to produce the steel which goes into our machines of war.

Many steel furnaces are working from hand to mouth. Others are faced with shutting down. All need great mountains of reserve scrap to see them through the fall and winter months.

Steel production has gone up . . . up . . . UP! America is now producing as much steel as all the rest of the world combined. But unless at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap steel is uncovered promptly, the full rate of production cannot be attained or increased; all the tanks, guns and ships our country is counting on cannot be produced.

We can be thankful that there is enough Scrap in this country to see us through—Scrap a once wasteful nation is turning to in time of stress. It all depends on you to collect it and turn it in.

It is the greatest "Treasure Hunt" in history. Appoint yourself a committee of one to search your attic, your basement and your garage, your barnyard, your factory or your store.

Then give your pile to a charity or collection agency—or sell it to a Junk dealer. The Junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

MRS. LINKE, recovering from her open-mouthed stare, ejaculated, "My stars! Barbara Wister, I'd never have known you if I met you on the street. You look simply stunning! Sophisticated!"

Barbara laughed. "It's just the new clothes, by dear. Wonderful sales in New York in midsummer. If I can get anything for you next week, let me know. I'm going down Tuesday to buy garden furniture for the Peabody. . . . Oh, Ellen, ring up Daphne and tell her I can't buy a trousseau without measurements. . . . I must fly now."

Hattie Linke sat down on one of the chairs covered with striped chintz and swept the shop with calculating eye. There were midsummer blooms now in many bowls on tables and shelves, crisp starched curtains in the big windows, and greens in copper kettles filled the hearth.

These were passing details with which Mrs. Linke was familiar. Her attention centered on the increased dimensions that made the shop twice as big as it had been, but eight months before, when it began—upon the office in the corner with a door marked "Private." Her eyes went to that and to Ellen Cassidy's desk with the filing cabinet and typewriter stand beside it, then traveled along the table covered with neat little stacks of travel folders and real estate photographs.

But for all these evidences of active business, Hattie Linke simply couldn't calculate Barbara's success in dollars and cents. That outfit must have cost a hundred dollars if it cost a penny.

She meant, somehow, to find out from Ellen. If Ellen ever got off the telephone.

It might be, Hattie thought, the nursery. She felt a little thrill of satisfaction, thinking of her part in that. Yes, she had something to do with the starting of that and a nice job it was because if there was one institution that South Wintbridge needed, it was Barbara Wister's nursery. At last, after 11 years, the Linke could have that long-planned vacation sans the two small Linkes.

Hattie cast an impatient glance at Ellen, still busy on the telephone, and made a resolution to check up on her reservations for Barbara to take little Hattie and the baby for the last two weeks in August. Goodness knows, one had to make reservations. Every mother in town was dumping her children in Barbara's care.

Barbara would never have called it dumping. To her, it was a miracle, a godsend and a beautiful business, easily the best of all her enterprises, which had sprung up like mushrooms in the last few months.

The nursery idea had begun the day Mrs. Linke dropped in to be-moan the fact that she couldn't accompany her husband to Atlantic City. "I can't take the children and I'm afraid to leave them for two days with the little girl who comes in to take care of them evenings," she'd wailed.

"Leave them with me," Barbara had invited. "I'll call for them in my station wagon, give them supper tonight and put up cots in Sonny's room."

Yes, that was the birth of a money-making enterprise for Barbara and a convenience beyond comparison for the nurseless mothers of the town. Only Barbara hadn't seen it until Hattie Linke came to her, saying, "There are a lot of mothers here, Barbara, who wish you'd make a regular service of taking care of our children for us. We know they'd be in good hands when we run into the city for a night or two, and we'll be glad to pay for it."

And now the second floor of Barbara's house had been turned into a nursery, with dormitory and playroom, dining room and all. And Mable Cronin, who had had a year in medical school and was, like Barbara, a young widow, presided over it.

Ellen finished her lengthy conversation in which she promised someone unknown to Mrs. Linke that Mrs. Wister would guarantee the cottage to be in order by the fifteenth and had engaged a cook and housemaid.

She put down the telephone and picked up a swatch of chintz. She'd forgotten to note that Mrs. Walker wanted new drapes for her upstairs rooms. And a teapot. And six pantie waists. She wrote the items down and turned her attention to Mrs. Linke.

"Ellen," Mrs. Linke sat back like a woman settling down for a nice, confidential talk, "did she say she was going to a Chamber of Commerce luncheon?" Her voice went up incredulously.

"The girl nodded."

"Are you sure? Women don't go to those luncheons."

"I know they don't," Mrs. Linke. But Mrs. Wister is a special guest. They asked her to give a talk."

"The men did? Well! What would she have to talk about?"

"Woman's Initiative in Business," Hattie said, "Oh."

"Mrs. Wister's an important business woman now, Mrs. Linke," Ellen pointed out proudly. "She's got work for lots of other people and built up several branches of her own business."

Marching down the street toward Drake's Inn, where the luncheon was to be held, Barbara Wister was trying to tell herself the same thing, and not making a very convincing job of it. Already she could feel her throat tightening and she was quite sure that she never again would be able to establish communication between her mind and her voice.

There was a long line of cars double-parked on the lawn beside the Inn and the sight of them prompted her to flee, a lovely thought to which she dared give no further consideration.

Howard Temple, treasurer of the bank and president of the Chamber, came down the steps to greet her. Back of him she saw what looked like endless legions of men. "Oh, Lord," she thought, "I hope I won't make a mess of it. If they're bored, it's their own fault for asking me to talk about my little businesses and how they came to be."

She had a moment's respite when someone stopped Mr. Temple on his way to her, and in it she hastily reviewed those "little businesses." The nursery. She knew all about how that began. But the other things—they'd come about naturally, too.

Starting a little employment agency, beginning those bi-monthly buying trips to New York that were so financially successful, what commissions from the shops and small fees for shopping; planning cruises and renting houses for people. They all began the same way—with impulsive offers to do favors for her customers. The customers themselves had started her businesses, offering to support her if she would turn favors into regular services.

The speech she had prepared didn't seem quite right to her at that moment. No, there was something else she must say.

Howard Temple was at her side, saying, "We've been waiting for you, Mrs. Wister."

"I'm terribly nervous. This is my first speech and I feel very humble about it."

Mr. Temple's round little face beamed at her. "My dear girl, if you are half the success to the ear that you are to the eye, it will be a remarkable occasion. . . . This way to our table."

She was the only woman in the crowded dining room and had one wish being granted her, she would have asked for the noise which she became aware of all the eyes upon her.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

LUNCHEON WAS eaten very swiftly, it seemed to Barbara. She ate warm fruit cocktail, tepid tomato soup and rookery steak as if it were her last meal on earth. Tasteless but necessary to attaining another world, and then, having wrapped herself in a kind of protective coma, realized that the waiters were pouring coffee, that the room was blue with smoke and Howard Temple was on his feet introducing her.

Get up. Bow. Fix your eyes somewhere in space and begin. That was the formula. She got over the first three parts as she had practiced at home, but when the speech began, it was not the speech that she'd learned.

From far away—a whole planet it seemed—she heard her own voice beginning: "From the first day that I came to South Wintbridge a few years ago, I wanted to be an integral part of it. . . . Other phrases came. . . . The beginning of any relationship, whether it is to be personal or a business one, must be based on reciprocity. . . . Not what you sell or buy, but what you give to each other equally. . . . There is no such thing as a small town in business. Everything is in ratio. . . . Wherever you find success you find those who want and those who serve. . . . The secret of successful American community life is based on this simple principle. . . . Phrases she had not known she meant to say went together into a speech that had a ring of truth and utter conviction.

Thunderous applause, of which she was only dimly conscious, filled the room. She was wondering if her nose was as shiny as it felt.

Once more, with the aid of watery knees, she got to her feet, smiled a glazed smile, and sat down.

The next speaker was introduced and gradually her mind began to function and her body felt once more as if it belonged to her.

She reached for a glass of ice water and lifted it to her lips, allowing her glance above its rim to sweep the room.

Directly across from her she saw Tom Kilcran.

She meant to nod and that would be all. But she smiled and saw his smiling answer, after which fleeting exchange she turned to Howard Temple to ask for a light for her cigarette.

Temple said something to her about how did it feel to be a businesswoman.

She told him that it was very nice, all except "making speeches and going to the bank for a loan."

Nervousness made her bring the latter up, she hadn't meant to at all.

Temple looked at her anxiously. "You're not going to hold that against us, Mrs. Wister? You come in any time now and I'm sure you'll find us co-operative."

The men were getting up at the other tables. Barbara drew on her gloves. She looked up.

Tom Kilcran was weaving his way through the tables, coming toward her with unmistakable direction in his progress.

If there'd been one other woman in the room, she would have snapped her vanity open and powdered her nose, but a fine thing it would be to do that just because Tom Kilcran was coming to her side. Was there—

While she said, "How do you do," in nice, cool, even tones, she noted the fine texture of his dark blue suit, the way his white collar fitted his big throat, his maroon tie—and the obvious pleasure in his eyes.

It was pleasure, a kind of delight at seeing her that needed no words to tell her it was there.

She said, "It's nice to see you. . . . It's been quite a long time, hasn't it?"

"Very long," he said, with the slightest emphasis on the first word.

She felt her cheeks warm, was immediately embarrassed because of it, and thought for a moment that was why he looked at her so peculiarly. But almost instantly her woman's instinct read surprise and approval in his eyes and knew it was because she appeared very different now in her chic frock and hat than she had the night of the carnival.

Her own stock went up and she said, "Nice luncheon, wasn't it?"

"Nice speech," he answered. This was followed by a little pause in which she murmured, "Thank you."

"Can I give you a lift? My car's at the door."

"Oh, thanks, but it's only three blocks. I . . . I think I'll walk."

She didn't know which would be sillier, to ride or to make a situation of it.

"Good idea. I need some exercise," he answered readily. "Besides, I want to talk to you. About Pam."

"Oh, Pam," she said brightly. "Do tell me about her. I miss her."

"She misses you, too, I'm sure."

"Are you really?" she said in the same bright voice, thinking, "Noel Coward wouldn't think much of this dialogue."

"Very sure. She's particularly fond of you. . . . Barbara,"—her name slipped out so naturally. Neither noticed it. "I'm troubled about my youngster."

"But why?"

"She writes that she's 'fed to the teeth' with Bar Harbor. It isn't like her to want to come back to a slow little town like this when she could be having a lot of fun elsewhere. Her mother has a big place there, you know."

Didn't Kilcran know that Pamela and Tony were showing all signs of falling in love? Barbara wondered.

"I suppose Pam told you about the . . . er . . . circumstances of her mother bringing her back east last autumn?"

Pamela hadn't, but Barbara murmured something that might pass for either a yes or no.

"It seems she's eating her heart out for a lad in Santa Fe. Was engaged to him last summer. Her mother didn't think she was old enough, or something."

Barbara said, "She's pretty young."

"Not too young to know what she wants." He was going to say that Claire wasn't much older when she married him but, thinking that Claire obviously hadn't known her own mind, he let it go.

"At first I was going to take it lightly, but now I'm beginning to worry. This wanting to come back here and—as she says—'keep house' for me, is a bad sign. I'm wondering if I shouldn't invite this chap to come east and take a look at him."

"Oh, no, not without asking Pam first," she blurted impulsively. "You might find . . . Her voice trailed off. She couldn't very well say that Pamela wasn't the kind of a girl who'd be in love with two men at one time. And unless she'd misread all the signs, she could read adoration in Pamela's eyes for Tony. About Tony she was not so sure.

Tom chuckled. "Anyway, I've a surprise for her. Poor little kid, we must have been mighty stern parents. The post office sent up a bunch of letters from Mexico addressed to a Miss Betty Brown, with a note saying Pam'd been picking them up herself. She must have been afraid for us to know she was writing to him. I'm saving them for her."

A bright red flag of danger waved wildly in Barbara's mind. She had an idea that whatever reason Pamela had for getting letters she didn't want her family to know about, it was NOT because she was afraid to have her family know she was writing love letters. Pam wasn't afraid of anything. And she had reasons for everything she did.

Roosevelt's Message and Second Front Outlook Strengthens Market

Bullish Developments Noted at End of Lengthy Holiday

By BERNARD S. O'HARA

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—The recovery theme predominated in today's stock market as developments over the lengthy holiday generally were viewed as bullish.

Wall Street, on the whole, favored the presidential message to Congress demanding anti-inflation legislation "or else" and buying sentiment apparently was strengthened by the Roosevelt and Churchill speeches indicating that a big blast at the Axis was imminent.

Trends turned upward when inflation failed to appear and, at the best, gains ranged from fractions to around two points. At the close good plus marks were well in the majority.

Lively low-price issues, in addition to a couple of "special" offerings, put volume up to 399,130 shares, largest since Aug. 19, compared with 309,270 last Friday.

Of the two "specials" 12,800 Allis Chambers was quickly over-subscribed while it required a little over an hour to complete a sale of 20,000 Woolworth.

Among an assortment of new highs for the year or longer were Erie common and certificates, Chicago & Eastern, Ill., "A," Twin City Rapid Transit preferred, Western Union, Goodyear and Goodrich.

In the blue chip class Westinghouse was lifted 2½, American Telephone 1½ and Chrysler 1½. Others in front included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, American Radiator, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, du Pont, United States Gypsum and Bendix.

A trifle lower were Great Northern, Standard Oil (N.J.), Sperry, Anaconda and United States Rubber. Philip Morris dropped 1½. Moderately advanced in the Curb were Gulf Oil, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Creole Petroleum and Sunbury Oil. Laggards were American Gas, Glen Alden Coal, Sherwin Williams and Northern States Power "A." The aggregate here was 53,920 shares versus 54,005 in the preceding five-hour stretch.

Plain Dress Is Best for Child Going to School

Children of "Well-to-Do" Could Set Style for Plain Garments

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
I wish parents, in making or buying garments for school children, would choose plain, substantial ones, those of strong fabrics, that will give long wear.

Even last spring, it was growing fashionable in some places for high school boys to wear blue denim overalls to school and for girls to wear garments similarly plain and desirable. In any junior or senior high school a fashion for such clothes can easily be set if half a dozen youths who could buy more expensive clothes were to choose cheaper ones instead.

This is also true for children in the grades. Parents who have abundance of this world's goods and are socially influential in the school community could easily set the fashion for providing simple inexpensive garments for their children. In their social clubs and gatherings they could talk about it with good effect. What they save in money they might well turn to the purchase of war saving stamps and bonds.

Get Children's Cooperation

They could win the cooperation of their children by playing it up as a patriotic service in these times. Moral values would accrue to them and their children. These parents themselves might choose to wear less luxuriant clothes for the duration.

Unfortunately, however, parents are inclined to cut down first on themselves and on the children last, making the children more selfish. It's when the whole family economizes equally that best values result. See what a program for inexpensive clothing worn by school children would contribute to democracy among all school children. Children who have to wear simple clothes would feel more at ease.

Expensive parties for children can hardly be good for them at any time and least of all now. Nor can parents afford to throw luxu-

NEW JERSEY CHOICE

Miss Madeline Elizabeth Layton, 19, above, will represent New Jersey in the Atlantic City, N. J., beauty and talent pageant, Sept. 7-13. She is five feet eight inches in height and weighs 130 pounds. She has chestnut hair and blue eyes.

Cut Down Expenses

What of youths (who want to spend lavishly on parties and other good times? It seems to me out of step with the spirit that is to win the war for them, to have them wasting money on social clubs, especially the so-called sororities and fraternities at the high school age. Certainly parents of children who are members of these clubs should curb them on expenditures for the duration. Again parents should appeal to them on the grounds of patriotism.

So also should college fraternities and sororities set out seriously now to observe simplicity and economy in their social programs. Youths planning for college or returning there this fall should pare down their budgets for pleasure to a minimum regardless of their family's income. Excessive luxuries at home or away from home should be considered out of harmony with patriotic service.

I have prepared a selected list of books on choosing a college, life at college and getting on at college, to be had without cost by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

A. Yes; and buy his own clothes.

'Sing-a-Gram' Girl Gets Job over 'Phone

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — First it was "sing-a-gram" and then singing a drama for Miss Eddine Rivers.

Miss Rivers is one of the girls a local telegraph office hired to deliver singing telegrams. A Chattanooga matron was so impressed by Miss Rivers' voice on one delivery that she persuaded Civic Chorus Director J. Oscar Miller to audition the girl's voice—by telephone.

Miller listened and liked. He praised Miss Rivers' voice highly and promised her a place in the Civic Chorus production this fall.

Football Contest

Third Game in Series Will Come on the Air at 8:15 p. m.

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Football goes on the MBS network for an important share of its broadcast time Wednesday night. It will be one of a series of army all-star games for the benefit of the army emergency relief, this game to be between the western division and the professional Detroit Lions.

Broadcasting is to start at 8:15 and continue until 11 or thereabouts. While this is actually the third game in an eight-game series on the air, it is the first to go on the coast to coast network inasmuch as the first two games were handled on the Pacific coast list of stations only. The next contest will be at New York Saturday afternoon.

Series on New Time

Mischa (Auer) the Magnificent comes along CBS at a different time. It's at Shirley Temple's old spot at 9 after a transfer from Sunday nights. It is supposed to be on Wednesdays for the next two broadcasts, unless otherwise changed.

Two guests are to appear in Great Moments in Music on CBS at 10 when excerpts from "Martha" are to be the feature. They are Dorothy Sarnoff, soprano, and Suzanne Sten, mezzo-soprano.

Teddy Powell, bandleader and rated as an "immortal of jazz," is to be around for the Basin Street broadcast on the Blue at 9. Outside of that the program will have just about its usual lineup.

Pupils Write Book
On Town's History

CENTRALIA, Wash. (AP)—A 400-page volume on Centralia's history has just been completed by high school students. It represents eleven years' work by English classes under Miss Herndon Smith, instructor in Centralia high school.

It also represents the enthusiasm of Ray Edinger, editor of Centralia's Daily Chronicle, who published it in serial form—it took six months—and then saved the type. Fred H. Cole, who has lived in Centralia 30 years, printed the book free.

Miss Smith's pupils have been going about interviewing every old-timer. They found out about George Washington, a Negro, who founded Centralia, wore a brown wig on week days and a black one to Baptist services on Sunday.

LONDON (AP)—Maybe people are so busy trying to win the war they haven't time to be bad.

Scotland Yard reports show crime figures for a recent week were the lowest since the war began and much lower than the weekly average for many years.

Constant Use of Head's Structures Is Reason for Many of Its Pains

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

We have mentioned pains in the muscles, joints, tendons and also foot pains in articles this week. We go on to discuss the commonest kind of pain of all—headache or head pain. As in the case of the foot the head is subject to pain often because there are so many structures in the head area that are constantly used and that need a very delicate balance and adjustment so that they will operate smoothly.

For instance, we all know fatigue headaches. You have been going about all day working so hard you haven't time to notice whether there is any headache beginning or not. Your eyes move from one side to the other on the average of at least twice a second. That is 380 times in the three hour session. Your ears are constantly assailed with a variety of strange noises—bangs, shrieks, scrapes, pounds or just plain noises.

Other Causes of Fatigue

You have nodded your head heaven knows how many times, turned to look to right or left and spoken several thousand words, all requiring muscular motion.

Your nose has been assailed with a number of different odors and it has become the receptacle for quite a quantity of street dirt. Is it any wonder that the head bears the brunt of the fatigue reaction of all this activity and that you have a fatigue headache? It is unquestionably the commonest form of headache.

Any kind of poison or toxin seems to go to the head first and headache is reliably the first indication of a cold or a fever.

These are all occasional or acute headaches. The chronic headache is not so easy to deal with or to explain. The common chronic headache, as Dr. Hugh Patrick, of Chicago, used to tell his students, is not an ache at all.

The patient will describe it as a pressure, or fullness, or feeling of emptiness, or dragging, or dizziness, or unsteadiness, or tension, or flickering, or feeling as if the head contained a liquid which changed its level at each movement and so on ad infinitum. These neurotic headaches are easier to describe than to cure. Medicines are no good for them, in fact should be avoided. Psychological treatment is best.

Migraine

The other form of chronic headache is migraine, or sick headache. It is recurrent and comes in spells and runs in families. Nobody knows what causes it.

It begins in young adult life and usually disappears in middle age. It never kills, that is one thing to be said in its favor. Most patients have their own system of treatment. As I wrote some time ago a number of people tell me that if they do not drink water during or before the attack it shortens it. They usually know when the attack is coming on and they stop drinking water as soon as these symptoms appear.

These ideas of laymen have recently received official confirmation from Dr. Temple Fay, of Philadelphia, who believes that congestion causes a stretching of the membranes and if the water consumption is cut off the amount of blood in the sinuses of the head is reduced and hence the stretching is lessened.

Questions and Answers

Worried Mother: My son of 18 has a few cavities in his teeth the size of a pin point. Should I allow the dentist to fix them immediately or wait till they get larger?

Answer: Nothing is more important for your child's future than to fill the cavities immediately. They may go down and involve the nerve and destroy the tooth so it will have to be pulled and destroy the whole arch of the mouth.

YET a sweaty American tank gunner in Egypt would gladly pay a dollar for me ... then go on fighting harder than ever.

I'm in the bottles that a soldier and his girl drink together in a village soda parlor, as they toast their future before he sails for "destination unknown."

I break the pressure of the nightlong swing shift for an airplane mechanic ... bring him a grin and a lift as he takes time out for his ten-minute recess.

... Yes, I'm only a 5¢ soft drink.

But I'm part of American life and progress and ways of getting things done. Part of a shrewd American understanding that one relaxed moment makes working and fighting easier.

Perhaps I should talk about the tons of scrap that the thousands of soft-drink trucks help collect daily. Or my advertising in every byway and whistle-stop that urges millions to buy more War

But my real job is to give a lift to millions of Americans every day.

Officer of Chinese Consulate, Just Returned from Chungking, Asks More "Doolittle Raids"

Maurice Liu

Osaka

Yokohama

By WILLIAM A. RUTLEDGE III
Central Press Writer

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—Hundreds of "Doolittle Raids" on Japan itself are the plea of Maurice Liu, who has just arrived here to direct the Chinese consulate after having returned from the battlefields of his native country.

"It will be a slow and difficult process to snip away at the tentacles of the treacherous octopus bit by bit," Liu warned. "The main body and heart of this octopus must be smashed. China has the airfields and facilities which American flyers can use as bases. There is nothing that Nippon fears as much as the aerial earthquakes which United States planes can deliver."

"That is the only way in which Japan can be defeated. Her manufacturing is concentrated in one corner of the island. She is highly vulnerable to aerial assaults. Doolittle and American aviators like him must go back to Japan—hundreds of times!"

Liu predicted that the next major Jap offensive would be directed at Russian territory in the Pacific which casts an ominous shadow over the security of the land of the Rising Sun. The consular official predicted that Nipponese conquest of Siberia would make our Pacific enemy as formidable as Hitler's Nazi war machine. He described the attacks on Australia in the South Pacific, Midway island in the mid-Pacific, and the Aleutian islands in the North Pacific as feints to pin down American forces wherever it was possible.

"All the stepping stones to attacks on Japan proper are being tied up under the current strategy of the Nippon war lords. This is a prelude to an all-out assault on Siberia. Jap moves are predicted upon a weak China at her rear. But China is still strong enough to take the offensive and she must become stronger to play her full part in hastening and insuring the ultimate victory of the United Nations."

The Chinese people had expected that the active participation of the United States as an ally would bring the war to a quick and decisive conclusion. It was that hope, Liu said, which buoyed up the hopes of the Chinese during four years of war with the Japs.

More Strength!

"Now we all realize that we have a long hard road ahead of us. We have seen how strong the Japs are. We know that we must make ourselves that much stronger and that much more determined to defeat her."

The conquest of Burma made the Chinese forces feel, for the moment, that they were cut off from the rest of the world. However, Liu declared, the quick substitution of freight planes to make deliveries no longer possible over the Burma road is relieving the situation. The American 23rd pursuit squadron, formerly the famous Flying Tigers, is making a marvelous record, he testified. Although far outnumbered by the enemy, they are getting valuable experience and learning how to cope with and wallop the Japs.

Liu was at the front on the occasion of the smashing Chinese victory at Chungking, probably the most decisive blow his people have delivered to Japan. "I visited a hospital where more than 200 atrocity victims were being taken care of. I saw an 11-year-old boy who had been bayoneted, a little girl who had been mistreated, farmers whose bodies had been mangled, and scores of exhibitions of Jap brutality and viciousness."

China Will Not Fall

Chungking, capital of unconquered China and seat of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government, has been bombed incessantly. Liu estimated that two-thirds of the city had been demolished. "But people were putting up cheerfully with conditions as best they could. It is amazing how adaptable they have become. The severest conditions of sacrifice and discomfort have become accepted as normal life."

Liu emphasized again the oft-expressed contention that, "China will never be conquered. The blows against Japan must fall before the Chinese allies are reduced to a weakened and ineffectual resistance. Japan, like Germany, has made her gains through long daring chances. The Allies must tackle with them some of that same strategy, best exemplified in the Doolittle raid, which rocked Japan itself back on its heels. More raids like that and more decisive action and Japan will be conquered quickly and completely."

Yank Soldiers Are 'Soft Touches'

BELFAST (AP)—It appears American men in uniform are soft touches.

In sentencing a woman for begging Magistrate John H. Campbell deplored the increase in street begging since the United States forces arrived, declared "I can see American soldiers being importuned all over the city. I don't know what they will think of us. They must imagine these people consider them suckers."

Cut in Cosmetic Production Puts Beauty to Test

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Your Uncle Sam has in effect, tapped his nieces on the shoulders and said:

"My dears, buy some wash-cloths, scrub the make-up off your faces. Girls like Molly Pitcher, who helped to win the Revolution, never heard of lipsticks or mascara."

For what else could the old gentleman with the chin whiskers have had in mind when, through his War Production Board, he demanded a sharp curtailment on all sorts of beauty preparations? Lipstick, rouge, face powders, mascara, and other cosmetics are to be cut to a great degree. The country will thus save for war purposes 17,400,000 pounds of chemicals and other critical war materials.

"But these are essential for combat purposes," the bright young thing, shopping at the cosmetic counter, said: "the oldest recorded combats in history—subjugation of male creatures."

The back-of-the-counter girl, dispensing a limited stock of prettifiers, was holding up a lipstick that verged dangerously on the purple side. "Well, no one would want that color anyhow," commented the shopper. "There's nothing for me but to take the veil for the duration."

And so your Uncle Sam rips through the entire list with the result that 17 per cent of critical material, based on the use of 2,300,000 gross of cosmetic containers, will be saved the first six months of this year.

In colonial days, women made most of their toilet preparations at home. Will they revert to great-grandmother's book of "Salves and Simples" or will they do without, or pay whatever these things may cost? What are your reactions, especially the gentlemen? I'd like to hear from you.

Street Light for Blackouts

Dear Miss Fairfax: I've always had a horror for darkness, unlighted streets, etc. A friend told me that a lamp for blackout had been developed. Do you know if this is true?

"NERVOUS NELLY."

Lights have been developed which will be completely invisible to enemy flyers, and will be just enough and no more to keep a person on his homeward path.

TOGETHER AGAIN

Clark Gable has just told Lana Turner that he is the brother of the man to whom she is engaged in this scene from M-G-M's "Somewhere I'll Find You," starting tomorrow at the Maryland theater. The film, a story of war correspondents in the Pacific war area, was directed by Wesley Ruggles.

Yank Sailors Boom Scotch Plaid Trade

EDINBURGH (AP)—The demand for plaids by Americans in Scotland has grown fast. Shopkeepers have been surprised—and pleased—at the number of United States sailors in these parts who claim descent from the old Highland clans. Business has been brisk in neckties and souvenirs bearing the clan tartans.

Edinburgh has been giving a real Scottish welcome to the first leave parties from the American task force in British waters. The American Red Cross has established a Service Club in one of the leading hotels.

Frostburg Defense Units Celebration Is Marred by All-Day Rain

15,000 in Home Defense

FROSTBURG, Sept. 8 — Colonel Henry Barrett, Baltimore, head of Maryland's civilian defense organization, principal speaker at Frostburg Labor Day celebration, made a stirring appeal for increasing interest and participation in the various civilian defense groups. He outlined the duties of air raid wardens, auxiliary police, airplane spotters and other units of civilian defense and complimented the local control center and the large number of home defense volunteers who are enrolled in home front activities.

Reporting that 15,000 home defense volunteers are now on duty in Maryland and doing a fine job, he declared that more are needed and made a special appeal for women to enroll for service as air raid wardens, canteen workers, first aid pupils and in other departments to substitute for men, who in cases of emergency, would be engaged in the production program and not available for home defense duties at all times.

He warned that more and more men would be drafted for military service, with the result that women would be compelled to take their places at home.

Col. Barrett was introduced by Vincent P. Ingram, Cumberland, who reviewed the growth of the home defense organization in Allegany since the attack on Pearl Harbor. The address of welcome to those assembled at the Junior Order pavilion was made by former County Commissioner A. Charles Stewart.

A steady rain throughout the day forced the committee to call off the afternoon picnic, but the soap box derby, planned for the enjoyment of children, was held in the presence of a large audience who stood with umbrellas and rain coats on both sides of West Loo street, to watch the races, which were conducted under the direction of George Albright.

1-B Men Will Be Called in Hardy During October

Selective Service Quotas Will Be Increased in Next Three Months

MOOREFIELD, Sept. 8 — There is a good chance that Hardy county Draft Board will dip into the pool of men in the Class B classification to meet the quotas for next month a check Tuesday revealed. Men in Class B are those with dependents other than wives and children.

Carlton Pierce, State Selective Service director, notified all counties that the quotas would be stepped up during October, November and December and the men in Class 1-A will be exhausted before that time.

About 400 men have been inducted into the service from Hardy county out of a total eligible list of nearly 2,000. This latter group includes all men who have registered under forty-five. In addition to the men inducted through the board there are a large group who have enlisted in the army, navy and marine corps.

Pierce stated that when the entire pool of physically fit men who are unmarried is exhausted the married men without dependents will be reclassified. Families will be disturbed as little as possible but some disruption of the family relationship is unavoidable. Men with working wives and no dependents will be drawn first, next come the men with non-working wives and finally men with wives and children or just children.

NATIONALLY FAMOUS CURTAIN CALL

"My mother thanks you, my father thanks you, my sister thanks you, and I thank you." James Cagney in the role of George M. Cohan gives the curtain line that was nationally famous. Others in the cast of "Yankee Doodle Dandy" coming this Friday to the Strand are Rosemary DeCamp, Walter Huston and Jeanne Cagney.

'Somewhere I'll Find You'
Stars Gable, Lana Turner

Clark Gable rises to his full stature in the role of a contemporary war correspondent in the Far East in "Somewhere I'll Find You." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture co-starring Lana Turner, which starts tomorrow at the Maryland theater.

The story is as timely as the latest war communiqué. The direction by Wesley Ruggles, distinguished for pictures of subtle power, strongly emphasizes the drama and the romance, not overlooking the humor of many situations.

Appearing in support of the co-stars are Robert Sterling, Patricia Dane, Tamara Shayne, Lee Patrick, Reginald Owen, Charles Dingle, Leonid Kinskey, Diana Lewis and Sara Haden.

Gable and Sterling appear as brothers, both war correspondents who return from Europe in 1941 to discover that their editor, Dingle, is blissfully unaware of the danger that looms in the Pacific. They manage to get a sensational story published but lose their jobs.

Returning to his former quarters in Greenwich Village, New York, where he roomed with an artist and wife, portrayed by Owen and Miss Patrick, respectively, Gable encounters Miss Turner, who has taken his old room. She, too, is a reporter and they have met before, but this occasion touches off the first spark of their colorful romance.

However, she is already engaged to Sterling, which complicates the situation.

with a brilliant cast, fine music and excellent, well-directed production numbers, it takes its place among the never-to-be forgotten pictures in film history. The picture will make its local debut at the Strand theater on Friday.

James Cagney is cast as the show-world's greatest song and dance man, and is said to be perfect for the role. The picture opens with Jerry Cohan, played by Walter Huston, "Irish Minstrel Act" just in time to welcome the new Cohan arrival in this world, whom he and his wife Nellie, a role played by Rosemary DeCamp, decide to call George M., the M being for Michael.

A few years later a little girl Jodie, is born to the Cohans and when she is old enough, they break her in as a skirt dancer. When Jodie becomes older her role is played by Jeanne Cagney. With the entire family in the act, they call themselves "The Four Cohans," and this becomes nationally famous during the decade that follows. And George's reputation for talent and aggressiveness becomes even wider and better known.

Jackie Cooper Stars
In Romantic Comedy

The exciting story of Hollywood starlets and their "behind the scenes" life is delightfully told by Paramount in "Glamour Boy," the romantic comedy currently at the Garden theater. Foremost among the latest films of this type is the Rough Riders series, the latest of which, "Forbidden Trails," comes to the Embassy theater tomorrow with Buck Jones, Tim McCoy, Raymond Hatton and "Silver."

This hard-riding, hard-shooting combination, which includes two of the west's best known and best loved heroes and one of Hollywood's most gifted comedians, typifies the best in cowboy tradition. Buck Jones is one of Hollywood's most active cowboys, having appeared in over 150 western melodramas since he first began his career in pictures. Tim McCoy is a western star in his own right and also has a long record of activity behind him. Raymond Hatton, who appears as "Sandy" in the Rough Riders series, has also appeared in many of Hollywood's finest productions, beginning with "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," in which Lon Chaney started.

Louis, Conn. To Meet in Title Bout Oct. 12

Yankee Stadium Selected as Site For Relief Fight

Sports Writers Will Handle Arrangements—Jacobs Named Promoter

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Corporal Joe Louis and Private Bill Conn will meet in New York's Yankee Stadium October 12 in the first heavyweight championship match in ring history between two soldiers.

The War Department gave its official blessing to the bout today in an announcement which said the return match of one of the best title tussles in recent years would be fought for the benefit of Army Emergency Relief. The entire net proceeds of a gate which is expected to reach at least half a million dollars and may go as high as a million, will be turned over to the fund. Neither of the fighters, or, for that matter, any "private interest," will receive any return.

Tickets for the bout, which probably will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the Columbus day holiday, will be scaled from $3 to $40. Although the War Department did not announce the time or place for the bout, it was learned in New York that Yankee Stadium has been selected as the site and that present plans are to make it the first day-time heavyweight title clash since Jack Dempsey out-punched Tom Gibbons under the broiling sun at Shelby, Mont., 19 years ago.

At the Fort Riley, Kas., cavalry replacement training center where he is stationed, Louis said the War Department announcement was "the first I'd heard of it" and added a quick "that's swell" when told all proceeds would go to the Army Emergency Relief.

"I'm in good shape," he said. "About 12 or 15 pounds overweight and I'm usually about 10 pounds heavy anyway when I'm not training. This Army work's kept me in good condition."

Mike Jacobs has been designated as promoter, said the department announcement, and a committee of sports writers headed by Grantland Rice has been appointed to handle arrangements.

Other members of this committee are Stanley Woodward, Art Flynn, Dan Burley, Joe Williams, Wilbur Wood, Bill Corum, Dan Parker, James P. Dawson, Bob Considine, John Kiernan, Dick McCann, Stanley Frank, Max Kase, and Joe Cumiskey.

Indians Wallop White Sox, 10-0

Ray Poat, Recently Imported from Indianapolis, Allows Seven Hits

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians defeated the Chicago White Sox, 10 to 0, today, but the second game was postponed and probably will be played either Sept. 24 or 25 in Cleveland when the White Sox visit there for the last time this season.

Ray Poat, recently imported by the Indians from Indianapolis, held the Sox to seven hits while the Indians plunked Thorton Lee for fifteen.

Lou Boudreau, manager-shortstop for the Indians, led the tribe's attack with four hits, two of them doubles, and he scored four of the Indians' ten runs. The box:

History May Be Repeated in Battle Between Zivic and Cochrane Friday

By JOHN LARDNER

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—There was a dramatic sketch played in the State of New Jersey last year which will be replayed at Madison Square Garden next Friday for the benefit of those who feel that the Jersey production had technical flaws and needed rewriting.

The playlet I refer to is a simple job to produce. It requires only one set (a prize ring, entrances left and right, with backdrop of light fans) and two characters, both male, named Fritz Zivic and Frederick Red Cochrane. It is suitable for almost any kind of audience. All you have to do is lay your hands on Zivic and Cochrane (it is a harder trick to lay hands on Cochrane than it used to be, since he became the property of the United States Navy) and there you are. The question is what about the lines and the business? Can the show be improved, or was it okay in the Jersey production?

Pittsburgh Critical

Many critics, especially in Pittsburgh, the home of Mr. Zivic, feel that the Jersey production would never do on Broadway.

"It needs a new ending," the boys argue. "The way they played it in Jersey, it didn't come out right. It ain't true to character. What would George Jean Nathan say? It's a very lucky thing that they tried it out on the road first, so as to iron these wrinkles."

The way the show ended in Jersey, if you remember, had a certain dramatic wallop: The curtain fell on Mr. Cochrane, the little-known club fighter, the home town boy, standing victorious over the great Zivic and accepting the welter-weight championship of the world, the mantle of Ryan, Walcott, Britton, Walker, McLarnin, Ross, and Armstrong. This surprise ending, this dramatic curtain scene, went over very big in New Jersey. The players liked it. They still do not see anything wrong with it.

"Let it stand," is what Mr. Cochrane's neighbors say. "If we liked it, New York will like it. If it's good enough for us, it's good enough for Madison Square Garden."

But the Pittsburgh critics are very finicky. They think the curtain should find Mr. Zivic on top. "You gotta make these characters ring true," says Mr. Arthur Rooney, the noted Pittsburgh drama expert and football impresario. "With Zivic winning, the show will run two years on Broadway."

Zivic Getting Senile

That last suggestion, I will have to remark, is carrying things a bit too far. For one thing, Mr. Cochrane is committed to an indefinite run with the navy, and will find very little time in the future to go through the Zivic routine. For another thing, Mr. Zivic is getting senile, as fighters go. Young in years, he is old in the ring. Several times, though Fritz, like the immortal Adeline Patz, is loath to say farewell for the last time.

Mr. Zivic has contended from the start that the Jersey ending of the Cochrane number is all wrong and morally misleading.

"It has gotta be changed," says Fritz, "and, as one of the co-authors, I am gonna change the hell out of it Friday night."

Maybe the cast of characters of this sketch is not quite as glamorous as it seemed a year ago last July. At that time Zivic was a proud and eminent champion, billed far and wide as the man who beat Henry Armstrong—not once but twice. Since losing the title to Cochrane, Fritz has tasted a good many miscellaneous gloves between his teeth. He has lost some of the old speed.

Pajokas and Johnny-come-latelies have treated him with disrespect.

Furthermore, Mr. Cochrane will not be risking the title. This is the constant practice of Mr. Cochrane, owing in part to the fact that naval service does not give him much chance to get into shape for title defense. And furthermore again, there is a dark shadow in the background, name of Ray Robinson, who sort of blights the act. Many critics think he could beat either Mr. Cochrane or Mr. Zivic.

Nevertheless, now is our chance to see if they are going to change that Jersey ending. The playwrights union is agog.—North American Newspaper Alliance.

Senators Humble Red Sox, 15 to 11 In Slugging Fest

Second Game of Planned Doubleheader Called by Agreement of Teams

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Washington overcame Boston in a hitting fest here today by a 15-11 score. Washington collected eighteen hits off Oscar Judd, Charlie Wagner, Mace Brown and Mike Ryba. The Red Sox got seventeen hits off Ray Scarborough and Alex Carrasquel.

The Sox went to work on Scarborough in the first inning for three runs. The Senators came back in their half to match those three runs and Wagner relieved Judd before the inning was over.

Boston went two up in the third and added two more in the fourth. The Senators were able to get two runs in their half of the fourth.

Four singles gave Boston two more in the sixth.

Trailing by four runs the Senators went to work on Wagner in the sixth. Assisted by three walks, the Senators put over six runs on four singles and a double. Mace Brown tried to stop the rally but the Senators continued the assault on Brown until they had the lead.

Scarborough gave way to a pinch hitter in the sixth, Alex Carrasquel, faced the Sox in the seventh and held them until the ninth when they tallied twice on two singles and two passes.

Mike Ryba took over the Sox hurling duties in the seventh. A walk, two singles and Early's second double gave the Senators three in the seventh. One more was added in the eighth.

The second game of a planned doubleheader was called at five o'clock by agreement to allow both teams to make a train. The box:

Wallace Wade's Army All-Stars To Battle Lions

Westerners Seek Edge in Series with Pro Football Combinations

By WATSON SPOELSTRA

DETROIT, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Western Army All-Stars seemingly thrive on hard work in large quantities, for they tuned up for tomorrow night's charity battle with the Detroit Lions of the National Football League by ripping through a two-hour drill today that included even a rough and tumble sample of contact work.

A few hours after the squad of forty-eight huskies arrived, Major Wallace Wade hustled the boys to University of Detroit stadium, where a capacity crowd of 24,000 is expected to witness tomorrow's battle under the lights, and went resolutely through the surprisingly heavy pre-game drill.

Perhaps the Army's attitude had something to do with the fact that Wade's team was established as a favorite to beat the Lions and seize an edge in the five-game series against pro clubs. The Soldiers defeated the Chicago Cardinals at Denver Sunday after losing their opener to the Washington Redskins at Los Angeles.

At the final drill Wade pronounced his squad in reasonably good condition, including Jarrin John Kimbrough, the former Texas A. M. fullback, who has painful rib bruises. Kimbrough has scored all three Army touchdowns to date, and the Lions really would have something to fear if he were declared wholly sound.

The Lions, showing great scoring punch Saturday while whipping the Philadelphia Eagles in an exhibition, intend to start nine veterans and two recruits, Ed Larry Knorr of Dayton and Fullback John Ponski of Wake Forest.

Proceeds of the game will go to the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

Ed Head, Dodger Rookie, Blanks Pirates 4-0

Brooklyn Boosts Lead over Cards To Three Games

Recruit Holds Buccaneers to Two Safeties after First Inning

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, battling to hold the National League lead against the challenge of the surging St. Louis Cardinals, handed the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-0 whipping today behind the neat four-hit pitching of rookie Ed Head and increased their margin over the idle Cardinals to three full games.

Once he got past the first inning when the Pirates collected two of their four safeties and filled the bases with only one out, Head was in complete control. A single by Pete Coscarart in the third inning and another one-base blow by Frank Gustine in the eighth represented Pittsburgh's offense the rest of the way.

Meanwhile the Dodgers pecked away at left-handed Aldon Wilkie. Bill Herman's double, an infield hit by Pete Reiser and a single by Dolf Camilli gave the Dodgers a single run in the first inning and the defending National League champions added two more in the fourth on Mickey Owen's double, a single by Arky Vaughan and an error by Ed Stewart, filling in at third base for the injured Bob Elliott. Joe Medwick's double and Owen's single accounted for the fourth Dodger run in the fifth. The box:

Brownies Defeat Detroit, 4 to 1

Steve Sundra Twirls Four-Hit Ball in Final Game between Clubs

DETROIT, Sept. 8 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns put together five straight singles for three runs in the fifth inning today, which combined with Walter Judnich's homer in the fourth and Steve Sundra's four-hit pitching, gave the Brownies a 4 to 1 victory over the Detroit Tigers and an even break for their twenty-two games this season.

The Browns' fifth inning blast started after two were out. Don Gutteridge cracked a single off Pitcher Hal White's foot and Harold Cliff, Chet Laabs and Judnich kept the spree alive with successive hits. Gutteridge and Cliff scoring. Roy Henshaw relieved White and was greeted with a single by George McQuinn, Laabs counting.

Only 723 fans witnessed the game, last of the season between the two teams. The box:

HOW THEY LOOK—IN THE MIDWEST

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

In baseball, all alleged prognosticators look to the Yankees first before blowing their top on the merits of the Indians, the Red Sox or the Tigers. In football, one begins with Minnesota and Notre Dame before giving the other midwestern schools a tumble.

And, this year, it's said to be the same old story. Those Golden Gophers and those Fighting Irishmen have got it, again. Or, at least, they have before the season opens.

To the Big Ten (or Nine if you will) first. Here's the way the teams finished in 1941. Minnesota, the winner; Michigan, Ohio State, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Iowa, Purdue, Indiana and Illinois.

Biggest loss the Gophers of Minnesota suffered was their coach, Bernie Bierman, now Lieut. Col. Bierman, head coach of the Iowa Naval Cadets, service team which has several games scheduled with Western Conference teams.

25 Lettermen Back

In George Hauser, line coach for ten years, and his assistants, Lowell Dawson, Bud Wilkinson and John Roning, the Gophers have some capable teachers. Hauser has worked with Bierman long enough to know his system, although the Gophers may concentrate more on defensive play than in the past.

Minnesota has twenty-five lettermen back, but most of the regulars from 1941 are gone. Among the missing are Fitch and Ringer, ends; Osdon, tackle; Pukema and Paschka, guards; Flick, center, and the backs, Smith and Sweiger.

The Gopher stars back are Dick Wildung, giant tackle; Bill Garman, quarter, and Bill Daley, Herman Frickley and Bud Higgins, backs. Bob Hary, a speedy back from St. Cloud, Minn., is among the outstanding new men expected to crash the varsity.

Michigan, losing Bullet Bob Westfall, the spinning fullback, has a heavy team headed by the flashy back, Tom Kuzma, successor to Tom Harmon. Big Al Wistert, tackle, is the bulwark of a ponderous line. Chief problem is to find a successor to Westfall and some ends. Fritz Crisler remains at the helm of the Wolverines, who play Notre Dame among other teams this year.

Bucks Need Backs

Ohio State, a surprise in the conference last year under the high school coach, Paul Brown of Massillon, is plagued with backfield trouble. Several promising sophoms from Brown's home town are on hand. Capt. George Lynn heads the backfield corps and Bob Shaw, giant end, the line brigade.

At Wisconsin, Coach Harry Stuhldreher is said to have the best material since he took over the direction of the Badger team. Twenty-two lettermen are available for the opener, and Stuhldreher will have veterans for every position. Pat Harder, 200-pound fullback, is expected to crack the All-American line after a sensational sophomore year. Two promising sophoms are Eury Hirsch of Wausau, Wis., and Jim Reagan of Berwyn, Ill., backfield candidates. Dave Schreiner, all-conference, end tops the front line.

Lynn Waldorf's Northwestern team, sans most of its star-studded backfield of last year, faces an extremely tough schedule. Gone are Bill DeCorrevont, George Benson, Ike Chambers and Dick Erdlitz and also gone are eleven lettermen in the line including the All-American tackle, Alf Bauman. Play of Otto Graham, the Wildcats' star soph of 1941, may make or break the team. Best-looking soph back is Joe Scriba, from Owasso, Mich. Best fortified spot on the line is at end, with both Bob Motl and Bud Hasse from last year back.

Iowa, with an excellent sophomore contingent, much needed because of the drain of players by the service and graduation, may not be up to the class of other seasons. Of fifty-one candidates, twenty-nine were sophs, twenty-two of them, under the present draft age of 20 years. Tackle, center and two backfield posts are the problems. Gone are Al Coupee, quarter; Bill Diehl, center; Bill Green, fullback, and Jim Walker, tackle.

Hillenbrand a Standout

Indiana, with a heavy team, and sparked by probably the best back in the Midwest, Billy Hillenbrand, has another rocky schedule, but given better breaks than last year may surprise the loop.

Seventy football candidates turned out for Purdue's new coach, Elmer Burnham. Six lettermen from the 1941 squad have joined the armed services, but seventeen other major lettermen are back. Burnham is building the Boilermaker attack around a deceptive short punt formation, in combination with a modified box. One complete line has departed. Co-captains Tom Melton and Jim Miller, guards, are gone; Bob Johnson, promising soph center last year, is in the service. Gone from the backfield are John Galvin, John Petty and Marion Carter. Dick Barwegen, 200-pound guard, is the best of the sophs.

Irish Powerhouse

At Illinois, where a line coach Ray Elliot, has replaced Bob Zupke, sophs make up nearly half the squad of forty-eight which reported for first practice, Sept. 7. Capt. Jimmy Smith is back for backfield duty, but the line is weak.

Among the major midwest independents, the Irish of Notre Dame, shifting to a T formation built around Angelo Bertelli, the star passer, is another powerhouse. Coach Frank Leahy says his squad will be built around Bertelli, shifted to quarter; Dippy Evans, left half; Wally Ziemba, center and Bob Dove, the end who will play guard. The ends lack weight. Harry Wright, quarter last year, has been moved to guard. Leahy is wary of his tackles. Gerard Cowhig, a much-publicized Illinois high school player in 1940, is the outstanding soph and is being groomed for the full-back position.

Detroit, sans All-American Center Vince Banonis, has a lighter schedule and should again be a ranking midwest power. Coach Gus Dorais has good backs in Tippy Madarik, a leading offensive star in the United States last year; George Ghesquire, and a soph, Tom Senff.

At Milwaukee, Marquette university's team, under Coach Tom Stidham, will come up with a flock of soph backs, although a veteran line is available. Ray Carlson, right end, has been moved to right half. Stidham has sixteen lettermen available. Ace Back Jimmy Richardson is gone.

Michigan State, with seventeen lettermen back, has line trouble. The entire 1941 forward wall is gone. Only veteran backs returning are Dick Kleppe and Walter Pawlowski.

Green Bay Packer End Not Seriously Injured

BALTIMORE, Sept. 8 (AP)—Earl Ohlgren, end for the Green Bay Packers football team, suffered only shock in last night's game with the Washington Redskins and will leave for his home tonight, physicians said today.

The former Minnesota university player was removed from the Municipal stadium game in the final quarter last night, and for a time it was feared he had suffered a severe neck injury.

The Redskins won last night's exhibition game, 28-7.

East decided to leave that double in, for fear he and his partner had terrific misfit hands and that further bidding from him might only cause deeper trouble. North took his club K and then, after looking at the dummy, was torn between two ideas. Would he jeopardize his own trump Q by leading a heart to prevent West from ruffing a club in dummy? Or would he lay down his spade A, with the idea that he might get a ruff or two himself? He decided on playing his spade A, then led the diamond 2, which West took with the K.

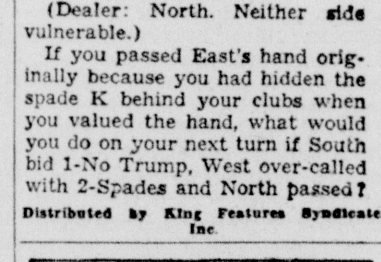

As expected, West then ruffed the club 3 with the dummy's lone heart, called the diamond A and got back to his own hand with a diamond ruff. He laid down the heart A and then the heart J. There was the crucial trick, deciding whether the contract went down one or two tricks, but North didn't know it. He played low, letting South win with the K. South now cashed the club J and returned his spade J, which North ruffed with the heart Q. That ended the trick-taking by the defenders, and West was down only one, the defense getting two tricks with clubs, one with the spade A and two with the ruff with the heart Q.

If North had looked closely, he would have seen South put the 5 on the first club lead, and the 4 on the later one, which West ruffed. That should have told North that South had either a doubleton or the club J, which could be an entry. Had he done that, he should have taken the eighth trick, to which West led the heart J, with his Q. He then could have put South in the lead with a small club to the J and South could have returned a spade to be ruffed by the heart A. Later South would have scored his heart K. In other words, North, by letting South win the first trump led to his side, had nothing to ruff with but his Q. By taking the first heart himself, however, North would have been able to ruff with a small card and thus the side's trumps would have scored three tricks instead of two.

If you passed East's hand originally because you had hidden the spade K behind your clubs when you valued the hand, what would you do on your next turn if South bid 1-No Trump, West over-called with 2-Spades and North passed? Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Fay Keiser Leads Uhl in Democral Race for Sheriff

O'Connor Piles Up Heavy Lead in Early Returns from This County

Democratic primary election returns, with 51 precincts out of 75 polling places in the county reported by 3 o'clock this morning, gave Fay W. Keiser, candidate for the party's nomination for sheriff, a total of 1,312 votes, to give him a lead of 510 votes over his opponent, Arthur F. Uhl whose total was 802.

Contrary to expectations of party leaders, Keiser took an early lead and held it throughout, as returns came in. Uhl had the party leaders' endorsement, as did six candidates for the state central committee, the majority of whom seemed to be favored by most of the party voters.

Scrap Drive Plans Completed Here

Metal Will Be Collected from Curbs September 13

Plans have been completed for Cumberland's one day drive, September 13, to collect scrap metal in the nation-wide campaign to aid the critical armament situation. W. Donald Smith, chairman of the committee in charge, said yesterday.

Householders are asked to collect all kinds of metal scrap during the next four days and place it on the curb before noon Sunday.

"Nothing," Smith said, "will be too large or too small. He urged residents to give up old garbage cans, bed springs, lawn mowers, pipe, wire and other similar metal scrap items.

Plans for the drive were mapped out by Smith in conjunction with the mayor and city council yesterday morning. Officials expressed the belief that a record-breaking collection will be made here.

Forty trucks, according to the plan, will be manned by more than 250 volunteer workers and will assemble at the A. and P. parking lot to make the canvass of the city. The scrap collected will be transported to the rolling mill yard and be loaded on Baltimore and Ohio railroad cars there for transportation to other points.

Two automobiles were slightly damaged when a box car crashed over a dirt abutment, crossed a wooden platform and knocked down an iron fence on the Western Maryland railway siding adjoining the Times and Allegany Company property about 11 o'clock last night.

Boy Marauder Breaks into Three Establishments

Dairy Store and Two Service Stations Are Entered Early Yesterday

An unknown barefoot boy marauder broke into two Cumberland service stations and a dairy confectionery store between 1 and 5 a. m. yesterday but gained nothing for his efforts, police said last night.

Detective R. E. Flynn said Officer P. C. Jenkins discovered a window broken at the Queen City dairy confectionery, 306 South Mechanic street, at 3:10 a. m.

Another window was found broken at the Frantz and Burkett service station, 115 South Mechanic street, at 4 a. m., and at 5:30 o'clock a broken window was discovered at the Red Head Oil company service station, 8 Winewood street.

M. C. Fazenbaker, watchman for the Business Men's Protective Association, of which the dairy and Frantz and Burkett are members, notified Sheriff Lucien C. Radcliffe County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle also conducted an investigation.

Police said the breaking and entering undoubtedly was performed by a boy. At the confectionery and at Frantz and Burkett's the intruder was able to be discharged.

Japan's Strength Must Be Realized, Speaker Declares

Robert Kazmayer Speaks on Enemy's Power at Rotary Luncheon

Japan's position and strength must not be underestimated by Americans, according to Robert Kazmayer, writer and lecturer.

Accordingly, he told Rotarians at their weekly luncheon yesterday at the Central Y.M.C.A., it must be defeated because of its potential mischief in the Far East, which might suffice to overturn the balance in the great world struggle now underway between the forces of democracy and totalitarianism.

The strength of Japan, Kazmayer said, lies in its productive capacity, its population, which will unerringly accept its responsibilities, and its religion, which welds the people into a system of feudal power.

Traces Developments

Tracing the development of Japan, the speaker pointed out that its density of population possesses both advantages and disadvantages. The chief advantage lies in its manpower, the lack of which Hitler is now beginning to feel, and the principal disadvantage is that its islands are so thickly populated and works and lives in such flimsy structures that they present easy targets for bombing. Herein, Kazmayer said, lies the great military opportunity for the United States.

Americans must not only win the war but also the peace if our freedoms are to be secured, the speaker continued, and they must realize that the future holds for the Western Hemisphere the responsibility of aggressive world leadership. This, he said, is because Britain has passed out of the picture as a world power. It lost its world influence in the last war, he said, although we didn't know it, and it has definitely lost it now.

Officials to Visit

John Liebau, club president, announced that Joseph Merritt, of Dundalk, Md., governor of the One Hundred and Eightieth Rotary International district, would pay his official visit to the club Tuesday, October 6.

Porter D. Collins, program chairman, also announced that Thomas R. Reid, vice president of a spice importing concern of Baltimore, one of the originators of what is known as multiple management, would discuss it at the next meeting of the club, to which the members of the Lions and Kiwanis clubs have been invited, as well as other business leaders who may be interested in the subject. Reid will be accompanied here by James M. Gleason, one of his associates.

"May I congratulate the people who have made this league possible. It is a wonderful idea that it has been carried out to perfection. The news of home is always greatly appreciated and I must say that your letter certainly has a lot of news considering the amount of space you have to print it on.
